AIRLINE IN NORTH CHINA

Service To Manchoukuo Inaugurated With Eight Planes

The new Huijing airline, connecting Manchoukuo with North China, was opened on Nov. 15 with a ceremony at the East Arsenal airfield in the presence of representatives of the Huijing-Chahar Political Council and Lieutenant-General Kanichiro Tachiro, commander of Japanese army forces in China, states a Tientsin message to the "Manila Bulletin".

It was noteworthy that General Sung Chieh-yuan, chairman of the HOPO, was not present although, curiously, the Kuomintang anthem was played.

Guests were taken up in trial flights by eight planes.

Low fares were announced, averaging approximately one-half those of the Chinese National Airways Corporation, which is partially owned by Pan-American Airways, and of the Eurasian Line.

Hence, it was apparent the opening of the new routes would likely entail a deficit. However, observers believed the service was not being maintained to facilitate air travel but rather for the purpose of gaining control of aviation activities in North China.

JAPANESE CONCERN

Japanese are understood to be most concerned over the activities of Pan-American Airways and Imperial Airways in connection with the opening of trans-Pacific service and establishment of a commercial air base in Hong Kong.

MR. T. V. SOONG'S PLANS

Canton, Nov. 25. Mr. T. V. Soong, Chairman of the National Economic Council, arrived here by train yesterday. To-day he will preside at the opening of the Canton branch of the Bank of Canton.

Mr. Soong was accorded a most warm and enthusiastic welcome by the civil and military officials, and representatives of the leading commercial and banking bodies of the city. Mr. Soong's father being a native of Hainan Island, the Hainan Island community of Canton also united in giving him a rousing welcome.

It is reported that Mr. Soong has a big scheme for developing the mineral, timber and natural resources of Hainan Island, which will be financed and supported by the Central Government.

It is understood that the scheme includes road-making, construction work, the rebuilding of towns, and the creation of new harbours for shipping.

Mr. T. V. Soong is famed for his ability as a financier and economic expert, and Generals Li Tsung-jen and Pei Chung-hsi have invited him to pay a visit to Kwai-lin and give the Kwangsi authorities the benefit of his advice and experience.

CAPTURE OF PAILINGMAO CONFIRMED

Town Falls After Seven Attacks

Peking, Nov. 25.

The capture of Pailingmiao is confirmed from reliable sources in Kweichow which state that victory was due to brilliant tactics by the Suiyuan command. Learning that the invaders expected 5,000 reinforcements from Chahar on Nov. 25 the Chinese decided to attack immediately with two regiments of infantry and one of cavalry commanded by Generals Sun Lan Feng, Wang Chiang Kuo and Chao Cheng Shou respectively. This force made seven attacks on Pailingmiao before the town fell. When aeroplanes flew over the town from Chahar yesterday they were greeted by the unwelcome sight of Chinese flags waving in the breeze. It is reliably reported that 4,000 defenders at Pailingmiao were led by a number of Japanese. The victory at Pailingmiao has raised the hopes of the Chinese for a clean sweep to be made by invaders not only in Suiyuan but also in Chahar the last part of which has been in the hands of the Manchoukuoans since last year.

Reuter.

IMPORTANT VICTORY

Nanking, Nov. 25. The capture of Pailingmiao is regarded here as an important victory destroying the northern base of the irregulars who have been threatening at the rear of Suiyuan defenders, also menacing the line of communications between Suiyuan and Ninghsia. A further fall of the town will enable the Chinese troops to devote their entire attention on east Suiyuan.

Many papers characterize the capture as "the first step towards the recovery of China's lost territories."

The meeting between the Japanese Ambassador, Kawagoe and General Chang Chun within a week is now believed to be impossible as Chinese authorities are awaiting the report of Tuan Mou Lan who is investigating the situation in Suiyuan.

Interviewed this morning Gen. Ma Chan Shan, the famous defender of Nonni River Bridge, declared, "I greatly rejoice over the fall of Pailingmiao although I am unable to participate in the battle myself."

Unconfirmed reports state that Shantung was also captured by Chinese troops.

SLUM CLEARANCE

HOW HONG KONG LAGS

Ceylon Sets Good Example

BY

E. J. M.

How often we hear Hong Kong referred to as the model city of the Orient and, as we are made to believe, one of the healthiest residential spots in the Far East. There is much evidence to prove these claims and the visitor is somewhat impressed by the clean-looking appearances which the towns present. Sanitary standards here appear to be higher than elsewhere, and the constant cleaning of houses and shops, carried out under Government supervision, is certainly reassuring.

MERELY A CLOAK

However, all these merely constitute a superficial cloak to screen Hong Kong's slum-land, hidden behind pleasant residences and business establishments. Here Chinese families are literally packed like sardines in rather mouldy tenement buildings which in other cities would have long been condemned. The walls of the "flats" are nearly in all cases falling down through dilapidation; unsightly marks remain where chunks of plaster have fallen off.

Poverty in Hong Kong is in a distressing state. The Chinese are the main sufferers, and it is only natural that as long as there is a roof over their heads to shelter them from the elements, they have little urge to better their lot. Relief is perhaps a strange word to their ears and those who have benefited by it are few.

HONG KONG'S INACTIVITY

Whilst contemplating the conditions under which our poor are obliged to exist, it is of interest to realise what is being done towards slum-clearance in other cities of the world.

CEYLON'S PART

Poor residents of the Kararuy slums, Jaffna, Ceylon, are being induced to move on to the Government reclaimed area where several cottages of varying sizes, costing from 400 to 1,800 Rupees are being constructed. The Jaffna Urban District Council obtained from the Central Government the lease of twelve acres, out of the reclaimed area, in order to house the slum dwellers of the most congested and insanitary part of the town.

The Council has divided the leased land into 140 blocks, 44 of which are nearly ten perches in extent each while the remaining 96 blocks are about five perches each. The sub-lease by the Council is for a period of 80 years with the option of renewal for a further period.

OLD HOUSES DEMOLISHED

One of the conditions on which the Central Government sanctioned the lease of the reclaimed area was that an applicant for the sub-lease of a building site should, on occupying the new house which he puts up on that site, allow the Council to demolish the house he originally occupied if it does not conform to the requirements of the Housing Ordinance.

Thus the Jaffna Urban District Council is aiming at clearing the "plague spots" of the Kararuy district by building model cottages for the Kararuy poor through its programme of slum-clearance.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

Enquiries made in Hong Kong reveal that the nearest approach to this method of relieving congestion in the local districts have nearly all in the past been attempted by private enterprises. Some of these have proved successful but in most cases they have failed because of the intrusion of land and building speculators, but these have all catered to the middle classes and not to the working people.

MODEL SETTLEMENTS

In this connection it is interesting to recall that, in 1911, a group of private residents not a few of whom have been pioneers for the expansion of the Colony's residential areas over the Kowloon peninsula, planned a scheme to create

FOOD SHORTAGE PREVENTION

Construction Of Rural Granaries

EXECUTIVE YUAN MEASURES

Nanking: As a preventive measure against the shortage of foodstuffs in the country, the Executive Yuan has promulgated a set of outlined measures for the construction of rural granaries and the accumulation of grains in various places.

The measures have been under formulation of the Ministry of Interior for some time. The present nation-wide shortage of foodstuffs as a result of flood, drought, banditry, and wholesale export by unscrupulous merchants prompted their early promulgation with a view to preventing the recurrence of a similar deplorable situation in the future and regulating food supply throughout the country.

According to the measures, granaries will be classified into six kinds.

Besides the accumulation of grains in readiness for famine, the granaries should also be utilized for the development of rural productive enterprises.

The detailed procedure for the establishment of granaries and the accumulation of cereals, the measures provide, should be fixed by the provincial authorities according to local conditions.

DEVALUATION IN CHINA

Striking Progress

GOVERNMENT'S FAR SIGHTED POLICY

London, Nov. 25.

During the twelve months which have elapsed since the Chinese devaluation and currency reforms much has happened to put heart into the once despondent holders of Chinese bonds says the "Financial News" in a leader to-day. Referring to the restoration of external equilibrium which was achieved only partly by the reduction of imports, the paper points out that this striking progress has been accompanied by the adoption of a vigorous and far-sighted policy by the National Government. Recent developments offer no reason for doubting Sir Frederick Leith-Ross's internal political survey given yesterday in which he referred to the ordered development under a strong Government having the full backing of public opinion and such internal revival as will tend to destroy conditions where social and political unrest flourishes.

MR. BALDWIN ON THE FOLLY OF THE WORLD TO-DAY

Spending Time On Arms
Instead Of Raising
Standard Of Life

Mr. Baldwin, speaking at the Lord Mayor's Banquet at Guildhall recently, appealed to the nations to stop "the folly of all of us" in building up armaments, states the "Daily Telegraph."

While we were devoting time to making arms, he said, we were delaying the improvement of the standard of life of our people.

If the nations forgot the condition of their people, discontent and despair would make war more likely.

Mr. Baldwin was replying to the toast of "His Majesty's Ministers," proposed by the Lord Mayor,
Sir George Broadbridge. Mr.
Baldwin said:

"It used to be said that the financial leadership of the City of London in the world was founded on the Gold Standard, but our experience in the last five years has demonstrated that the position of London is based on something deeper. The stability of our currency has been dependent not on any material standard, but on the City's tradition of honour, of moderation and of public spirit which is always available for the guidance of the Government of the day, whatever its political complexion may be. In managing the financial affairs of the nation, and at a time when mistrust is rife in the world, and economic and financial systems are in a state of flux, there has been this centre of confidence and of stability to afford a rallying point.

REDUCING TRADE OBSTACLES

"The Government will support all attempts to bring about a reduction of obstacles to international trade. At the same time it is to be remembered that they have already made a real and effective contribution to the end in view by undertaking not to indulge in competitive devaluation and by maintaining a non-exclusive imports policy.

"All the available data points to a continuance of the upward trend of trade as a whole."

"I rejoice at what has happened only in the last few days: a clearing agreement and a commercial agreement have been concluded with the Italian Government."

"The negotiations have been long and complicated, but it is hoped that the agreements now reached will enable trade between the two countries to be satisfactorily re-established on a basis which will promote a progressive return to normal conditions."

"It is traditional—but I am not sure I am going to be a slave to tradition to-night—that the Prime Minister should 'let observation with extensive view survey mankind from China to Peru.'

"I have mentioned that very well-known quotation because I know that in the City of London
we all are, or ought to be, Johnsons. Therefore, we all know that those words appeared in a poem entitled 'The Vanity of Human Wishes,' a title perhaps not wholly inappropriate to the circumstances of the world to-day.
(Laughter.)

BONDS WITH U.S. Helping World Peace

"The foreign policy of the Government has been so recently explained by the Foreign Secretary in the House of Commons that I do not propose this evening to say as much as is usual on this occasion on that subject."

"With the United States of America our relations have, as always, been excellent, and his Majesty's Government are looking forward to a further period of friendly co-operation with the Government of President Roosevelt in all matters of common concern. (Cheers.)

"It is particularly gratifying to his Majesty's Government to note that the main objective of their economic policies is the same, namely, the liberation of the world from the shackles which unduly impede the free development of international trade, and particularly those exceptional restrictions of importation and exchange which were instituted during the period of economic depression."

"A further bond of sympathy between the two countries has been the similarity of their outlook in the political field, and a keen desire to help within the measure of their respective situations, the cause of world peace."

TRADE WITH ARGENTINE

"I would turn for a moment to a country with which we have a long tradition of close friendship and collaboration—I speak of Argentina."

"I must add a word about the trade negotiations which have been taking place with that country. The negotiations have been arduous, and from their nature difficult, but they are now approaching a conclusion, though I cannot yet say exactly what that conclusion will be."

"The interests of the two countries are, to a large extent, common, and it should not prove difficult to settle outstanding difficulties, and I earnestly hope that we may shortly be able to announce that agreement has been reached."

"An event of great importance and of happy augury, which has taken place in the last year, has been the signature, after negotiations which, if somewhat prolonged, were carried on in a spirit of the greatest friendliness, of a treaty of alliance with Egypt. His Majesty's Government regard with much satisfaction the solution of the Egyptian question thus reached, and the placing of the relations between the two countries on a settled basis of mutual advantage."

"The treaty should constitute an enduring element of stability in the international situation in the Eastern Mediterranean. We welcome Egypt as our new ally.
(Cheers.)

RISE OF POLAND Britain's Sympathy

"I should like to take this opportunity to say how honoured we are by the presence among us this evening of the Foreign Minister of Poland. Poland has always enjoyed the sympathy and regard of my countrymen."

"In the past she has suffered more than any nation for the cause of national liberty, and the Poland of to-day has accomplished a great effort of national revival. Under the leadership of that great soldier, Marshal Pisudski, she has won her place among the ranks of the great powers of Europe."

"She has re-equipped and developed her economic resources ravaged by the war. She possesses the newest Navy of modern Europe to which we, as one of the oldest Naval Powers, extend our greeting.
Her merchant ships are trading in every sea. The symbol of Poland's maritime and commercial achievement has been the construction and development of the great port of Gdynia."

"In this sphere, as in all others, we look forward to developing a close collaboration between our two countries, both of which have the cause of world peace earnestly at heart."

HEALING WAR WOUNDS

"You spoke, my Lord Mayor, of peace. It is many years since I first had the honour of speaking in Guildhall as Prime Minister.
It cannot, in the natural order of events, be that many more years should remain to me to do that.
I am the more anxious to make one or two observations on a subject ever present in my mind."

"After the war, I and my colleagues who were with me were devoting all our powers to trying to pull together our own country after the war. I know we all felt, as I felt so strongly myself, that through all Europe there was but one task that lay before the nation—that was to heal the wounds of those four deadly years and to try and improve the lot of the common people of Europe, matterially and spiritually; to try to do something to ease that poverty, that suffering, that depression of the standard of life which we found in so many parts of Europe, which we found in our own country, and which we have not yet, with all our labours, completely overcome."

"And to-day, while we are still finding and burying the bodies of the men who fell in the war, the whole of Europe is arming—a more inconceivable folly for those of us who have the responsibility of governing the great countries in Europe! What good can come of it?"

"In so far as we devote time to making arms, to that extent we delay the time when we can improve the conditions of the standard of life of our people."

"As we devote the greater part of our attention to arms, we delay the growth of that international trade upon which alone can be securely based an improvement in the conditions of the people in Europe."

"And if the nations of Europe devote for too long their care to these material things—to arms—and forget the condition of their people, there will grow discontent and despair, and, indeed, if these armaments continue I don't say they mean war, but they make war more likely. And there is no one in Europe to-day—and I do not care who he is—that does not know what war in the long run means."

"It means all over Europe a degradation of the life of the people. It means misery untold compared with which the misery of the last war was happiness, and it means, in the end, anarchy and a world revolution, and we all know it, and knowing it, what can our duty be but to come together and save Europe?"

"And what is our position in this island home of ours? We are looking now to our defences, and quite right too. (Cheers.) I am prepared to devote all our efforts, whatever it may cost in men and money, to do what is necessary, but am conscious all the time of the folly of all of us."

"I say that the defence of this nation is unavoidable in world circumstances, and we are determined to leave no stone unturned to do all that we may consider necessary."

(To be Continued)

WANG CHING WEI STILL SUFFERING

Quo Tai Chi Honoured

London, Nov. 24.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei, still suffering from the effects of the wounds received at the hands of a would-be assassin, has arrived here to take British medical advice. It has been decided not to remove the bullet that remains buried in the statesman's back.

Moreover, Mr. Wang is suffering from gall stones, and although his health is much improved after some months at Continental resorts, it is uncertain whether he can stand the strain of an operation, of which German and French doctors disapprove.

Mr. Wang will see nobody during his stay in London except Mr.
Quo Tai-chi, China's Minister at the Court of St. James.

Recently, Mr. Quo has been signally honoured. It is the custom of the City Livery Club at its brilliant annual banquet at the Guildhall in honour of the Lord Mayor, to invite one distinguished representative of every class. This year Mr. Quo was the diplomat invited, and accordingly represented the whole of the large and imposing diplomatic corps in London.

The ex-Lord Mayor, Sir Maurice Jenks, paid a warm tribute to the manner in which Mr. Quo discharges his duties in London. But said Sir Maurice, another reason behind the selection of Mr. Quo as the diplomatic representative at the banquet, was the city's wish to show its appreciation of the remarkable progress made by China in her recent recovery and development.

How to Cure Your SKIN ERUPTION

Why suffer humiliation from the scrutiny of passers-by? If your face is marred by a disfiguring eruption, an angry rash, or unsightly blotches, a course of Cuticura treat-starts with the first application. Itching, irritation and smarting stop instantly.

Pimples begin to dry up and rubes fade,
your mirror shows a visible improvement each day until, in a few days, scarcely a

RECIPES FOR PORK AND HARE

You can vary the menu frequently by making more of the fine pork and hare.

WITH ORANGE STUFFING

Try roast pork with orange stuffing on Sunday. Four to four and a half pounds of pork, boned and ready for roasting, makes a good family joint.

For the stuffing, mix together two cupsful of fine breadcrumbs, a small cupful of shredded suet, a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley, and a teaspoonful each of thyme and powdered sage. Add salt and pepper, and blend together with the juice of one large or two small oranges and half a lemon.

Arrange the stuffing on the pork, roll and tie at each end and in the middle. Sprinkle with flour, then bake in a hot oven for the first half hour, then in a moderate one for 1½ hours. Serve with baked potatoes, vegetable marrow and gravy.

SALTED PORK

A small leg of pork, salted then boiled, is an economical dish. Choose a small, well-filled leg, rub well in with salt (mixed with a teaspoonful of salt-petre and 1 lb. brown sugar to 1 lb. black salt).

Let it remain in pickle for a week, turning and rubbing daily. Then soak in cold water for two hours before it is to be cooked. Put into a saucepan, cover with cold water and boil gradually, removing scum which rises, then simmer gently until tender.

BOILED AND BAKED

A tasty way of cooking a leg of pork which agrees better with some people than when roasted in the usual way, is to boil it partly then to finish cooking it in the oven.

When it is nearly cooked remove the joint from the saucepan and cut a slit in the knuckle. Fill the space with sage and onions, chopped, and seasoned with salt and pepper.

Score the skin no deeper than the outer rind, flour all over, and roast in a hot oven for an hour. Serve with apple and bread sauce.

BACON RISsoles

Instead of keeping bacon only for breakfast, try these savoury bacon rissoles for dinner.

To make them mince 1 lb. cold boiled bacon and onion and mix with 1 lb. cold mashed potatoes, 1 teaspoonful chopped parsley and 2 ozs. white breadcrumbs. Add salt and pepper to taste and bind to a stiff mixture with a beaten egg. Put on a floured board and form into cakes. Roll in browned breadcrumbs and fry brown in boiling fat.

BACON AND BEANS

Two good-sized rashers of bacon, 1 lb. butter beans, and 1 pint of parsley sauce make a delicious supper dish for two people.

Soak the beans overnight in cold water and cook in water or stock until tender, then drain. Cut the bacon into small pieces and fry, adding a little additional bacon fat if necessary.

Toss the beans in with the bacon until all the fat is absorbed, place on a dish, cover with parsley sauce and serve hot with slices of toast.

RABBIT PUDDING

Satisfying and savoury is rabbit pudding.

Wash and joint the rabbit, excluding head, liver and neck; they can be stewed for gravy.

Season with salt, pepper, mixed herbs, and sprinkle with a small chopped onion and flour. Mix with 1 lb. cut-up pork.

Line a large pudding basin with suet crust, fill the basin with the pork and rabbit cover with cold water or stock, and top with a thickish piece of crust.

Tie down with greased paper, and steam for three hours. Turn out and serve with thick gravy.

SAVOURY HOT-FOT

Cooked in a casserole, rabbit retains all its flavour and nourishment.

Joint the rabbit, season with salt and pepper, inside and out, then fry lightly in dripping with three rashers of bacon.

Place in a casserole, and add a fried, sliced onion and a sliced carrot.

Sprinkle with flour and a teaspoonful of mixed herbs, cover with water and a lid and cook in a moderate oven for two hours.

Before serving, thicken the gravy.

USEFUL CHUTNEYS

These chutneys are particularly useful because they can be quite easily made and the ingredients are easy to get.

Chutneys often make all the difference to cold meats whether they are home-made or some of the excellent proprietary kinds.

BANANA CHUTNEY

Peel and slice with a stainless steel knife a dozen bananas. Chop finely a pound of cooking apples, half a pound of onions and six ounces of seedless raisins. Put these with the banana into an enamelled saucepan with half a pint of white wine vinegar, half a pound of granulated sugar, a dessertspoonful of curry powder, salt, cayenne pepper and half a teaspoonful each of ground ginger and powdered cinnamon.

Simmer slowly for two to three hours being careful to stir to prevent burning. Cool and put into pots like jam.

GREEN TOMATO CHUTNEY

Chop up finely five pounds of green tomatoes, sprinkle them over with salt, cover them and let them stand all night.

In the morning drain off the liquid, and put the tomato into the stewpan with two pounds of apple and a pound of onions cut up, add a pound of brown sugar, a quart of vinegar, half a pound of treacle, and some cloves, all-spice and pepper corns tied up in a muslin bag.

Boil all together until the tomatoes are tender (about an hour) take out the bag of spices, put a cover when cold.

TOMATO SAVOURY

Peel half a pound of tomatoes, and chop up with half an onion and one pimento. Put a lump of butter into a saucepan, and when melted add the tomato mixture.

Stir until soft, then sprinkle with paprika, salt, and a grating of nutmeg. Beat two eggs with a dessertspoonful of milk, pour into the pan, and stir together until soft and creamy.

When the eggs are added the pan should be removed from the heat altogether to prevent the eggs from getting hard. Put back for a second or two if necessary. Pour on to squares of buttered toast and serve at once. A few mushrooms may be used if pimentos are unobtainable.

SANDWICH SURPRISES

For A Buffet Supper

A few tasty sandwiches alongside the bridge rolls and sausages on sticks will be enjoyed by guests at a buffet supper party. Here are some ideas for fillings.

Sardines mashed with a few drops of lemon juice, a tablespoonful of mayonnaise, pepper and salt, are always popular. Spread the paste on bread and butter, decorate with a thin slice of hard-boiled egg, then form into a sandwich.

Fresh shrimps are sure to tempt and will not fall to pieces. Squeeze a few drops of lemon juice over the picked shrimps, add a pinch of salt, and a little chopped gherkin, moisten with mustard, then spread between bread and butter.

FRUIT AND NUT

One or two fruity sandwiches are refreshing. Mince together equal quantities of raisins and nuts and moisten with a little cream. Spread between thin bread and butter or water biscuits.

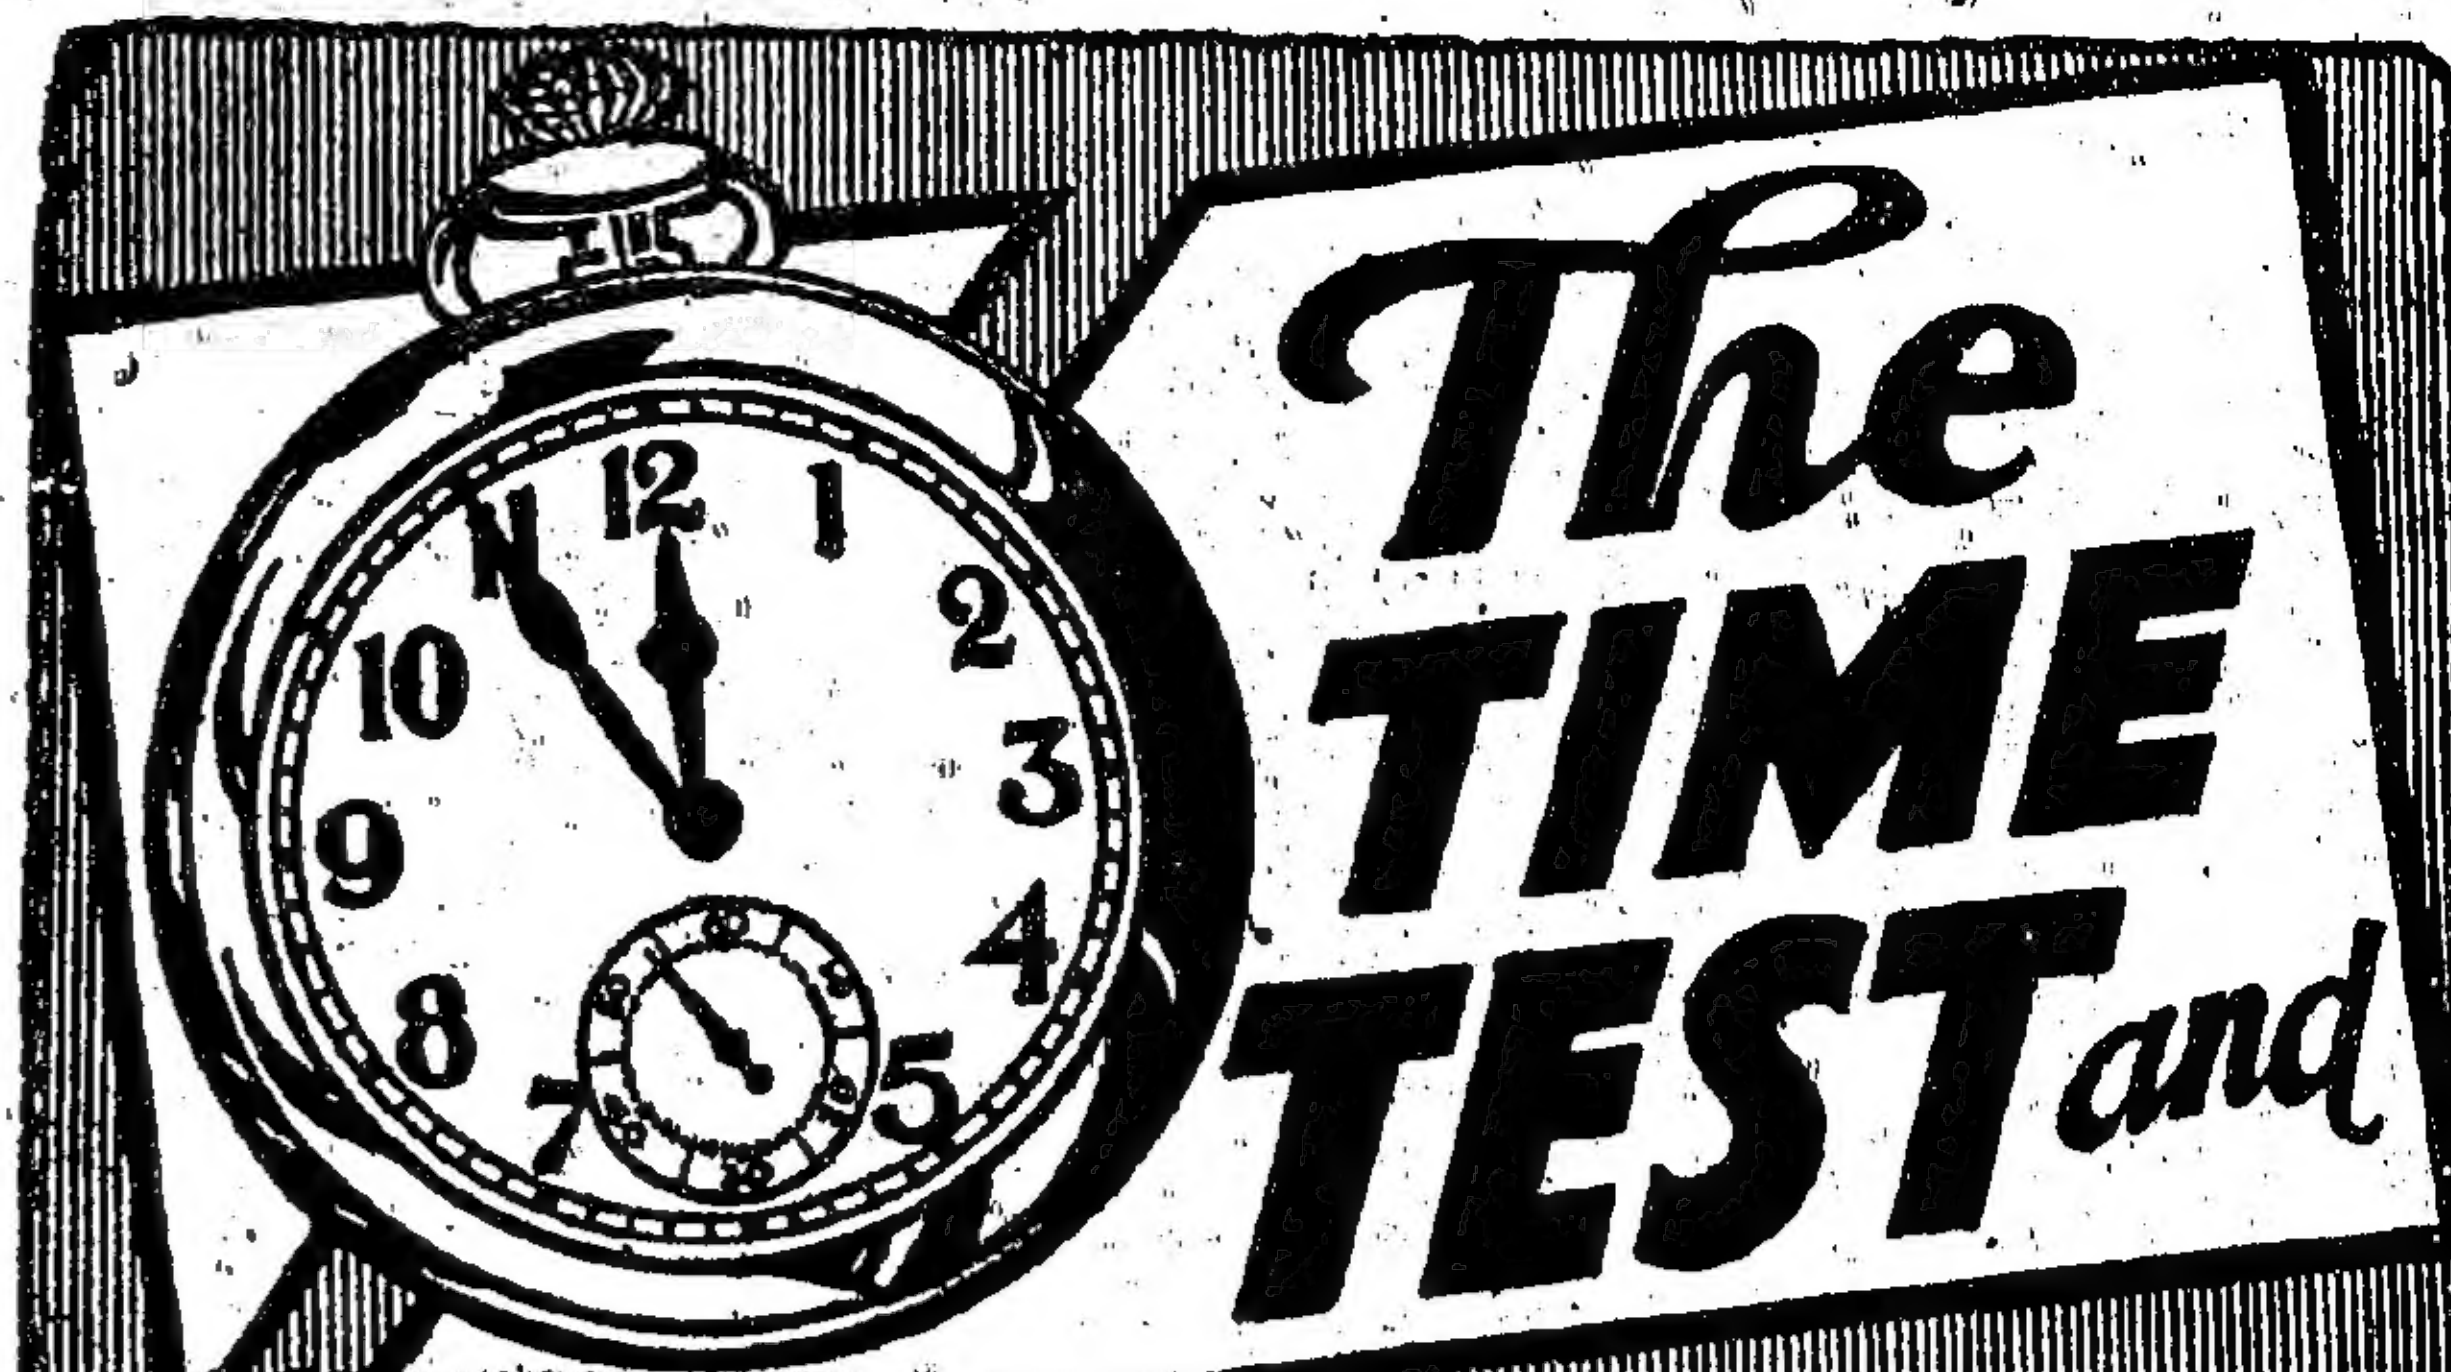

BANANA SPREAD

Bananas mashed with lemon juice and a few chopped nuts will also prove popular. Raspberry jam and banana are also relished as filling by guests with a sweet tooth.

MARMALADE CAKE

This cake is a change from either an ordinary fruit cake or its usual alternative, a sponge sandwich. It has a pleasantly sharp flavour, and the marmalade peel gives it an added interest. One of the sandwich tins with a loose bottom, measuring six or seven inches across, is suitable for the following quantities.

Cream four ounces of butter with four ounces of sugar. Beat in one large egg or two small eggs with a little of the weighed and shifted six ounces of self-raising flour. Stir in tablespoonfuls marmalade and the rest of the flour. If two eggs are used, avoid using too much of the thinner part of the marmalade. In any case, the marmalade chosen should be of fairly thick consistency, with coarsely cut peel. The home-made kind is usually too light and fine. Bake in a fairly slow oven.

'ASPRO'

THE old idea that a dozen medicines were needed for a dozen complaints—that laying up for indefinite periods was necessary—that it was also necessary to take dangerous drugs and narcotics—was an illusion. 'ASPRO' has dispelled it. For it is the medicine that takes the place of a dozen medicines, because, after ingestion in the system, it is an internal antiseptic—an anti-pyretic or fever reducer—an anti-periodic—a powerful germicide, and a solvent of Uric Acid, and, therefore, banishes the causes of numerous complaints. That's why ASPRO banishes headaches in five minutes. It's the time test for quick action, and it stands the test of time. 'ASPRO' soothes the irritable—brings sweet sleep to the sleepless—relieves rheumatism in one night—smashes colds and influenza at inception. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' does not harm the heart or the stomach. It can be taken by all, from child to parent, anywhere, any time. The price is within the reach of all.

TWO LITTLE CROSSES

Remembrance Day Tribute

In the Field of Remembrance outside Westminster Abbey, London, a British officer on Nov. 11 planted two small crosses. By this action he linked Remembrance Sunday with the earliest days of the Great War, states the "Bulletin."

The officer was Squadron Leader D. S. Jilings, first British soldier to be wounded on the Western Front.

The crosses were in memory of the first two British soldiers to be killed, Lieutenant C. G. C. Bayly and Second Lieutenant V. Waterfall.

BRITILE FACTS

"You can argue against war and the wickedness of resort to war, but when the trumpets sound you will have to plunge into it," declared the Bishop of Salisbury at a Remembrance Day service, one of the thousands held throughout the country.

"We have learned in the last few years, how covenants, pacts, international conferences, and leagues are but brittle bait when a nation's leaders summon it to war," he continued.

"Pacifists passionately proclaim that since to use force is an outrage of the teaching of Christ nothing will ever again induce them to protect themselves or others from violence by force of arms."

"But who does not know that circumstances might arise which would make you use any weapon available for physical destruction if thereby you could protect from horrible treatment, the woman be-

RUMANIAN-POLISH AGREEMENT

Bucharest, Nov. 24.

The Rumanian Foreign Minister, Antonescu left this city on Tuesday for Warsaw, where he will make an official visit. Before his departure he had a conference with Premier Tatarescu. The Rumanian press states that the visit is for the purpose of restoring the Rumanian-Polish Agreement as an effective political instrument.

This agreement was, at its initiation, intended as a defence agreement against an attack by Soviet Russia against either country.—Transocean News Service

CALL TO BE READY

"Neither professed pacifism nor signatures on parchment will bring the dawn upon the darkness of aggressive war."

Admiral Gordon Campbell, speaking at the British Legion memorial service at Alexandra Palace, London, said:

"Jellicoe and Haig were open to criticism, much of it unfair and unjust, but he who served under them during the war know that when the history of their deeds is written this criticism will be proved wrong, and this Empire will be proud of their leadership and sound judgment."

"A new generation has taken the place of the men who fought in the war, and it is to them that we old soldiers and sailors look for the maintenance of peace."

"Every man and woman in this country should equip themselves to be ready if there ever be a day of emergency. If we do that to maintain peace those whom we commemorate to-day will not have died in vain."

SEAPLANE HARBOURS

At Wake And Midway Islands

State department officials in Washington said recently that the proposed construction of sea plane harbours at Midway and Wake Islands, in the Pacific Ocean, is devoid of military significance and Representative Sam D. McReynolds, chairman of the House of foreign affairs committee, concurred in the statement, states the "Manila Bulletin."

War department officials disclosed that army engineers have recommended construction of a $1,000,000 sea plane base at Wake in addition to a $500,000 project at Midway. The latter project was disclosed recently.

JAPANESE NERVOUS

In Tokyo, the Japanese news agency Domei reported that Japanese naval officials were nervous and apprehensive over the reports, anticipating termination of the unfortification clause of existing treaties. The Japanese navy officials say the projects show that America is adhering to "cross ocean tactics" and they added that the bases would give America a battle formation circling Japan, with Luzon, in the Philippines, to the south, Midway in the east and the Aleutian Islands in the north.

The office of the speaker of the United States House of Representatives said that the army engineers had filed a number of confidential recommendations on development of Midway.

Other congressional sources disclosed that the chief recommendation, filed last September, suggested a $541,000 appropriation for deepening the channel in Welles Harbour at Midway. Another informed quarter said that improvements at Guam might be proposed later.

FORTIFICATIONS DENIED

Acting Secretary of State R. W. Moore said that the projects have "no relation to fortifications" in the Pacific nor the Washington naval treaty. He said that the construction was to facilitate commercial activities only, providing landing places for planes navigating the Pacific. He added that such navigation "may become very frequent in the future."

FOR COMMERCIAL AIRLINES

Reynolds asserted that no Asiatic power "could have objection to the project once its nature is understood." He said that the proposed development is merely intended to provide a safe base for commercial airlines and is far too small to have military significance.

Construction of the base at Midway was recommended by Major General Edward M. Markham, chief of the army engineers. The development would consist of a basin 1,200 feet square and eight feet deep. Midway, it was pointed out, is protected by a suitable break-water. The project to cost $500,000, would require an annual maintenance fund of $15,000.

At the present time Midway, Wake and Guam are being used as bases for giant trans-Pacific Clipper planes.

MAPPING INDIA

PUNJAB COMMUNAL TROUBLE

The history of the Geological Survey of India, a body whose romantic activities are seldom realised by the man in the street, is sketched below in a press note from the Public Information Bureau, Government of India, states the "Colombo Times."

A map of India that has taken nearly a century to prepare and involved the sacrifices of dozens of lives is steadily nearing completion.

The story of the launching of this work in the middle of the last century, of the dangers and difficulties encountered, and its inestimable value to the nation as a whole is one of the most remarkable in the history of the Government of India.

This map is a patchwork of colours, representing different features, except for a few small white blanks. It is these blanks that are being filled in gradually by that little known department of Government, the Geological Survey of India. In a few years' time, the map and voluminous records will have reached the point where it may be said that the first survey of rock formations and mineral deposits throughout India has been achieved.

One of the main factors that led to the setting up of Geological Survey Department was the necessity for supplies of domestic coal for steamers on the Ganges early in the last century. This led to a Committee to inquire into coal supplies, which pointed out that to begin with, the coal seams in India ought first to be located.

KING GEORGE STATUE

SITE WILL BE HEART OF EMPIRE

Final arrangements for the setting up of a statue to King George on a site facing the Houses of Parliament and adjoining Westminster Abbey, a simple and inspiring monument "in the heart of Empire" have now been made.

That is the announcement published recently by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Percy Vincent.

Sir Percy states that the successful completion of the objects of the National Memorial Fund to King George is assured, following a widespread response from the United Kingdom, the Empire and abroad.

"As regards the site" the statement adds, "it has been decided to acquire and demolish the houses surrounding the Jewel House opposite the Victoria Tower."

NEED FOR A SURVEY

In other words, that there should be a Geological Survey. With the approval of the Government of Bengal, this recommendation was sent to the Court of Directors in London, who acted most promptly in engaging and sending out a geologist for this work, Mr. H. D. Williams, who arrived in India in 1845.

Like many other geologists who followed him in India, Mr. Williams, without the knowledge or equipment available to-day, fell victim to jungle fever and died within three years. But he had in that short time proved the value of such investigation, providing information about the Raniganj, Rangarm, and Karanpura coalfields.

POLISH AGITATION FOR COLONIES

Warsaw, Nov. 23.

The Polish Naval and Colonial League staged demonstrations in all the more important towns on Sunday, in favour of Poland's claim to colonial expansion.

The resolution adopted at all the meetings affirmed that the colonial problem was one of the most vital questions for the Polish state since Poland needed raw material in order to build up her industry as well as a market for her industrial products. Until this was done her unemployment problem would remain very acute.

Access to territories overseas must be made open for Polish immigrants in order to improve the conditions for living alike in the towns and in the country.

In conclusion the resolution welcomed the efforts of the Polish Government to obtain an international solution of the problem of Jewish immigration from Poland and assured the Government of the Polish people in any further steps it might take in this direction.—Transocean News Service

STUDENTS STRIKE

Warsaw, Nov. 24.

The students of the Pilsudsky University in Warsaw have joined the strike, demanding that Jewish students be assigned special sections of seats during lectures, and are not to be permitted among Polish students. A dead lock exists, 800 men and 500 women having occupied the main auditorium of the University, and refuse to leave before their demand is fulfilled.—Transocean News Service

THE BRITISH TASK

Appeasement In Europe

STRENGTH OF ARMS AND PURPOSE

The debate on foreign affairs on Nov. 6, in a House of Commons better attended but still not overfull, revealed considerable traces of unanimity. The House at least showed itself ready to take Mr. Eden's review in its professed intention of being a plain statement of policy, and the Foreign Secretary commanded the attention of respect without exciting the exhilaration of enthusiasm, states "The Times."

He began with a firm reproof to certain recent examples of diplomacy by propaganda, and by contrasting these efforts with his own intention to make a plain statement to Parliament, "the authority which we prefer." The guiding principle of the Government's policy was to bring confusion on the present sneers against the League of Nations.

POLITICAL REALITIES
Of course the League was not at present the instrument that we should all like it to be, but among present political realities he numbered the fact that the League principles were better than anything else which statecraft had devised, even if some nations did not think so. Until they did think so, the League's authority could not be complete. That was another "reality," and yet another was our determination to defend our legitimate interests as a nation, though we believed that would not be at the expense of the interests of others.

In pursuance of this policy the Government had tabled proposals to ensure earlier action by the League in case of a dispute, and to dispel the impression that the League existed only to maintain the "status quo." They were also trying to gather a conference of the Locarno Powers and had communicated with them afresh yesterday. The exchanges had revealed differences, not unexpected nor insuperable, but formidable. He would only say that success was not only a British interest.

GERMAN ILLUSIONS
Passing to relations with other Powers, Mr. Eden warmly noted that relations with France, as was natural with another democracy, had never been better. Our friendship was not exclusive on either side.

As for Germany, there was a reciprocal desire for friendship, but conditional on our side by the considerations that friendship must neither be exclusive nor diverted against anyone else. Mr. Eden courteously but firmly exposed the illusions of General Göring and Dr. Goebbels. We had lent Germany as much as we had received in reparations. We had concluded a trade agreement most favourable to her. Therefore we were in no sense responsible for her difficulties, and she would do better to cooperate in efforts to improve international trade—for example, by joining the recent currency agreement between France, the United States, and ourselves. That, he hoped, showed that we had no idea of the economic or political encirclement of Germany.

THE MEDITERRANEAN
As for Italy, there had been estrangement because of our loyalty to the League, and still continuing differences about proper international conduct. Answering Signor Mussolini's speech at Milan, Mr. Eden said Italy must not think the Mediterranean sea route was a mere convenience to us. It was vital to us—a main arterial road. We recognized, however, that it was also vital to Italy. The interests of the two countries there had been complementary. We hoped they would continue to be so, and we had no desire to threaten any Italian interest. As for the Far East, Mr. Eden noted that Sino-Japanese strains seemed to be easing.

In general, he considered the international situation grave but not inevitably catastrophic, provided we played our part and showed full strength of purpose and of arms. Of course, there could be no enduring peace without an arms agreement, but meanwhile all were rearming either steadily, vigorously, or feverishly.

In favour of Germany, he has been in prison since, without being given a hearing. The German Embassy in Moscow is investigating these matters.

NEW MASS ARRESTS IN SOVIET

Interesting Details

Warsaw Nov. 24.
Interesting details regarding the new mass arrests in the Soviet Union of political suspects by the GPU were revealed by Austrian Communists and other left extremists, who passed through this city after being expelled from Russia.

Several scores of persons were arrested, because of alleged sympathies with the Trotsky opposition, and are arriving daily at Butyrki prison in Moscow, where political prisoners are detained. After a short detention there the prisoners are sent to compulsory camps for five years. The number of political prisoners who passed through Moscow jails in 1935 is approximately 80,000.

The expelled Austrians declare that the recently arrested and imprisoned persons included army officers of the highest rank, such as Marshal Gamernik, who was some time ago, arrested together with 84 officers of the General Staff. The majority of the political suspects are sent for detention to the so-called "Bam" Camp near the Balkal-Amursk-Magistral railway line, where, it is asserted, 800,000 to 900,000 political prisoners are held. A second large camp is situated near Taga, west of the northern Ural on the River Petchura. At this camp it is said that 50,000 prisoners are held, in temperatures sometimes below 64 degrees centigrade.

The expelled extremists state that there is now hardly a single family in the Soviet Union, without one member in a detention camp or prison.

ITALY'S WAR DEBT TO AMERICA

Rome, Nov. 24.
The news of the resumption of payment of the war debts which Italy owes the United States, was confirmed. Hitherto negotiations have chiefly been concerned with the question of using export surpluses, so as gradually to work off the indebtedness. It is stated that the motive which has led to re-opening the question is that Italy desires to regain access to the American loan market from which it was debarred by the U.S. Johnson Act, which places a loan embargo on countries that are in default in their obligations to the United States.

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN TREATY

Approved Without Opposition

London, Nov. 24.

The House of Commons to-day approved the new Anglo-Egyptian treaty without opposition.
The provision of the treaty meant that Britain must protect Egyptian territory from invasion. Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Minister, told the House in moving ratification of the pact.
"The safety of Egypt is the great common interest uniting that country and the United Kingdom," said Mr. Eden.

Because of the Suez Canal, the integrity of Egypt was a vital factor in the interests of the British Empire, the Foreign Secretary went on, as well as of Egypt herself.

While the Governments of the Dominions of the British Empire had not signed the treaty, they had been kept informed at every stage of negotiations, Mr. Eden concluded.

"I MARRIED A DOCTOR"

A stirring drama of small town bigotry and intolerance, the Warner Bros. production, "I Married a Doctor," showing at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

The picture is based on a novel by Sinclair Lewis which caused a furor throughout the country by exposing the cruelties resultant from the attitude of self-righteous small town people who judge others by their own narrow standards. It is said to be filled with pathos and tragedy and dynamic scenes, enlivened by romance, sparkling dialogue and comedy.

Pat O'Brien and Josephine Hutchinson have the romantic leads, he being a country doctor who takes his city bred bride to his small home town where she immediately arouses a jealous and bitter antagonism among the women because their husbands and sweethearts are attracted by her beauty and wit.

Unwittingly she creates a scandal by taking under her patronage a country youth with artistic aspirations. Encouraging his ambitions, she does not realize that he has become desperately infatuated with her, until he begs her to run away with him. The tongues of gossip, long wailing, clack with venom when the youth, mad with disappointment, is killed in a wild automobile ride.

Believing everyone in town to be petty, mean, intolerant and cruel, she flees from her home and husband, returning to the city. But in a surprising climax she and her husband are reunited.

"GHOST GOES WEST"

The hilarious adventures of a handsome and amorous ghost who accompanies a haunted Scottish castle to America, are depicted in amusing fashion in "The Ghost Goes West," Alexander Korda's gay romantic comedy which brings Robert Donat to the Majestic Theatre to-day with Jean Parker and Eugene Palette.

The star is cast as Donald Glouie, an impoverished Scotch nobleman who sells his haunted ancestral castle to an American millionaire, and also plays the jolly castle ghost.

The millionaire has the castle razed and transported to New York stone by stone and the ghost, being a very conscientious shade, packs up and trails along.

Complications develop when the ghost turns up aboard the transatlantic liner and is mistaken for Donald, whom he very closely resembles.

The film reaches a hilarious surprise climax when Martin, who has decided to use the ghost to publicize Martin's Fine Foods, holds a reception for the press in the ludicrously retored and modernized castle.

PERRY'S CONTRACT

Five Tennis Pictures At £2,000 Each

F. J. Perry, three times Wimbledon tennis champion, whose decision to turn professional was announced recently informed me on November 13 that, in addition to the £20,000 he will obtain under his contract, he expects to earn a big additional income from films, states the Special Correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph."

He is about to sign a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to make five short films on lawn tennis for £2,000 each. He hopes that this experiment may start him on a film career.

"In addition," he said, "I am proposing to co-operate in several ventures with Ellsworth Vines, who will be my chief playing partner in exhibition games. We are very close friends, and have played against each other six times. Vines winning four of the matches. I do not know yet whether I shall be matched against Tilden, but I will do what my backers arrange for me."

At the end of this week Perry, with his wife, Miss Helen Vinson, will move into their new home at Beverly Hills, California.

BREAKDOWN OF FILM DEAL NEGOTIATIONS

American Company's Decision

Swords have now been drawn in the battle between English and American companies for the control of Gaumont-British, the huge film company with headquarters at Shepherd's Bush, states the "London Morning Post."

Mr. John Maxwell, Chairman and Managing Director of Associated British Picture Corporation, Ltd., acquired 250,000 "B" shares in the Metropolis and Bradford Trust, which controls Gaumont-British, from the Ostrer Brothers, thus completing the first half of a deal involving assets of £24,000,000. Over the second half of the deal, concerning the acquisition of 5,100 "A" shares, also held by the Ostrers, negotiations broke down recently.

Mr. Maxwell wants to buy these "A" shares in order to gain full control of Gaumont-British. He cannot do so without the consent of Twentieth Century Fox, an American film company, who also have large interests in the Metropolis and Bradford Trust. Until lately negotiations were taking place between Mr. Maxwell and Mr. Sidney Fox. It is reported that Mr. Kent offered to sell half of the American shares for £2,000,000. Apparently it is over this figure that negotiations have broken down.

"TO PROTECT OUR POSITION"

The following statement was issued by Mr. Kent:

"After lengthy telephone conversations with our Board of Directors in New York and with Mr. Joseph Schenck, my associate in Hollywood, I have been advised to terminate all negotiations for the sale of our interests in the Metropolis and Bradford Trust to Mr. John Maxwell or the Associated British Picture Corporation.

"Upon finishing my work here I shall return to New York."

"We do not consider the present atmosphere conducive or proper to well-thought-out negotiations, while the outlook for the future is not clear enough to indicate what our attitude during a period of time will be.

"We intend to make use of every resource at our command to protect legally the position we occupy. We have no intention of doing anything just for the sake of causing trouble, and we make this statement with a feeling of friendliness to all concerned.

"Our decision to terminate negotiations is the result of strict business considerations."

PRICE NOT ACCEPTABLE

Mr. John Maxwell stated:

"We have been negotiating with Mr. S. R. Kent for some days for the acquisition of the Fox holdings in the Metropolis and Bradford Trust. This is not a necessary part of our arrangements, but we regarded it as desirable if it could be achieved at a reasonable price.

"We came to the conclusion that the price and other conditions asked for were more than we could reasonably agree to, and the discussion for the acquisition of the Fox interests have terminated for the time being. The agreement with Messrs. Ostrer for the acquisition of the controlling interest in Metropolis and Bradford Trust remains in full force in accordance with previous announcements, and we are advised, can be carried through completely without the acquisition of any other interests."

BARCELONA HARBOUR

Proposed Blockade

Paris, Nov. 24.

In the matter of the proposed blockade of the harbour of Barcelona, the French Government announces that it has adopted the same standpoint as the British Government. The French Government declares that it is unable to acknowledge and recognise the blockade, because: "It has not recognized the Franco Government as a belligerent power. According to informed circles it is furthermore stated that a blockade need only be recognised by neutral powers if it can really be enforced.

"The National Government of Burgos, it is asserted, does not command enough naval power to make the blockade effective. The only point, where the French outlook materially differs from the British, is that French warships have not the right to search French merchant ships to certain whether they have war material for either party on board—the French law does not permit such interference with the freedom of trade."

"TWO IN REVOLT"

The feats which a police dog and a horse perform in "Two in Revolt" make one of the most amazing animal films since the coming of the talkies.

Showing at the Alhambra Theatre to-day, "Two in Revolt" features Lightning and Warrior, the canine and equine leads and a top-notch human cast in an almost unbelievable series of adventures which build up to a vividly dramatic story.

The dog's battle with a wolf pack, his rescue of the horse, the horse's fight against his kidnappers, and the thrilling race-track finale, are some of the thrilling high-lights.

Due to this uncanny ability on the part of the four-footed players, "Two in Revolt" is a notably realistic drama of animal friendship, panoramic in its sweep yet never losing interest in the human romance that supplies the gliding thread of the story.

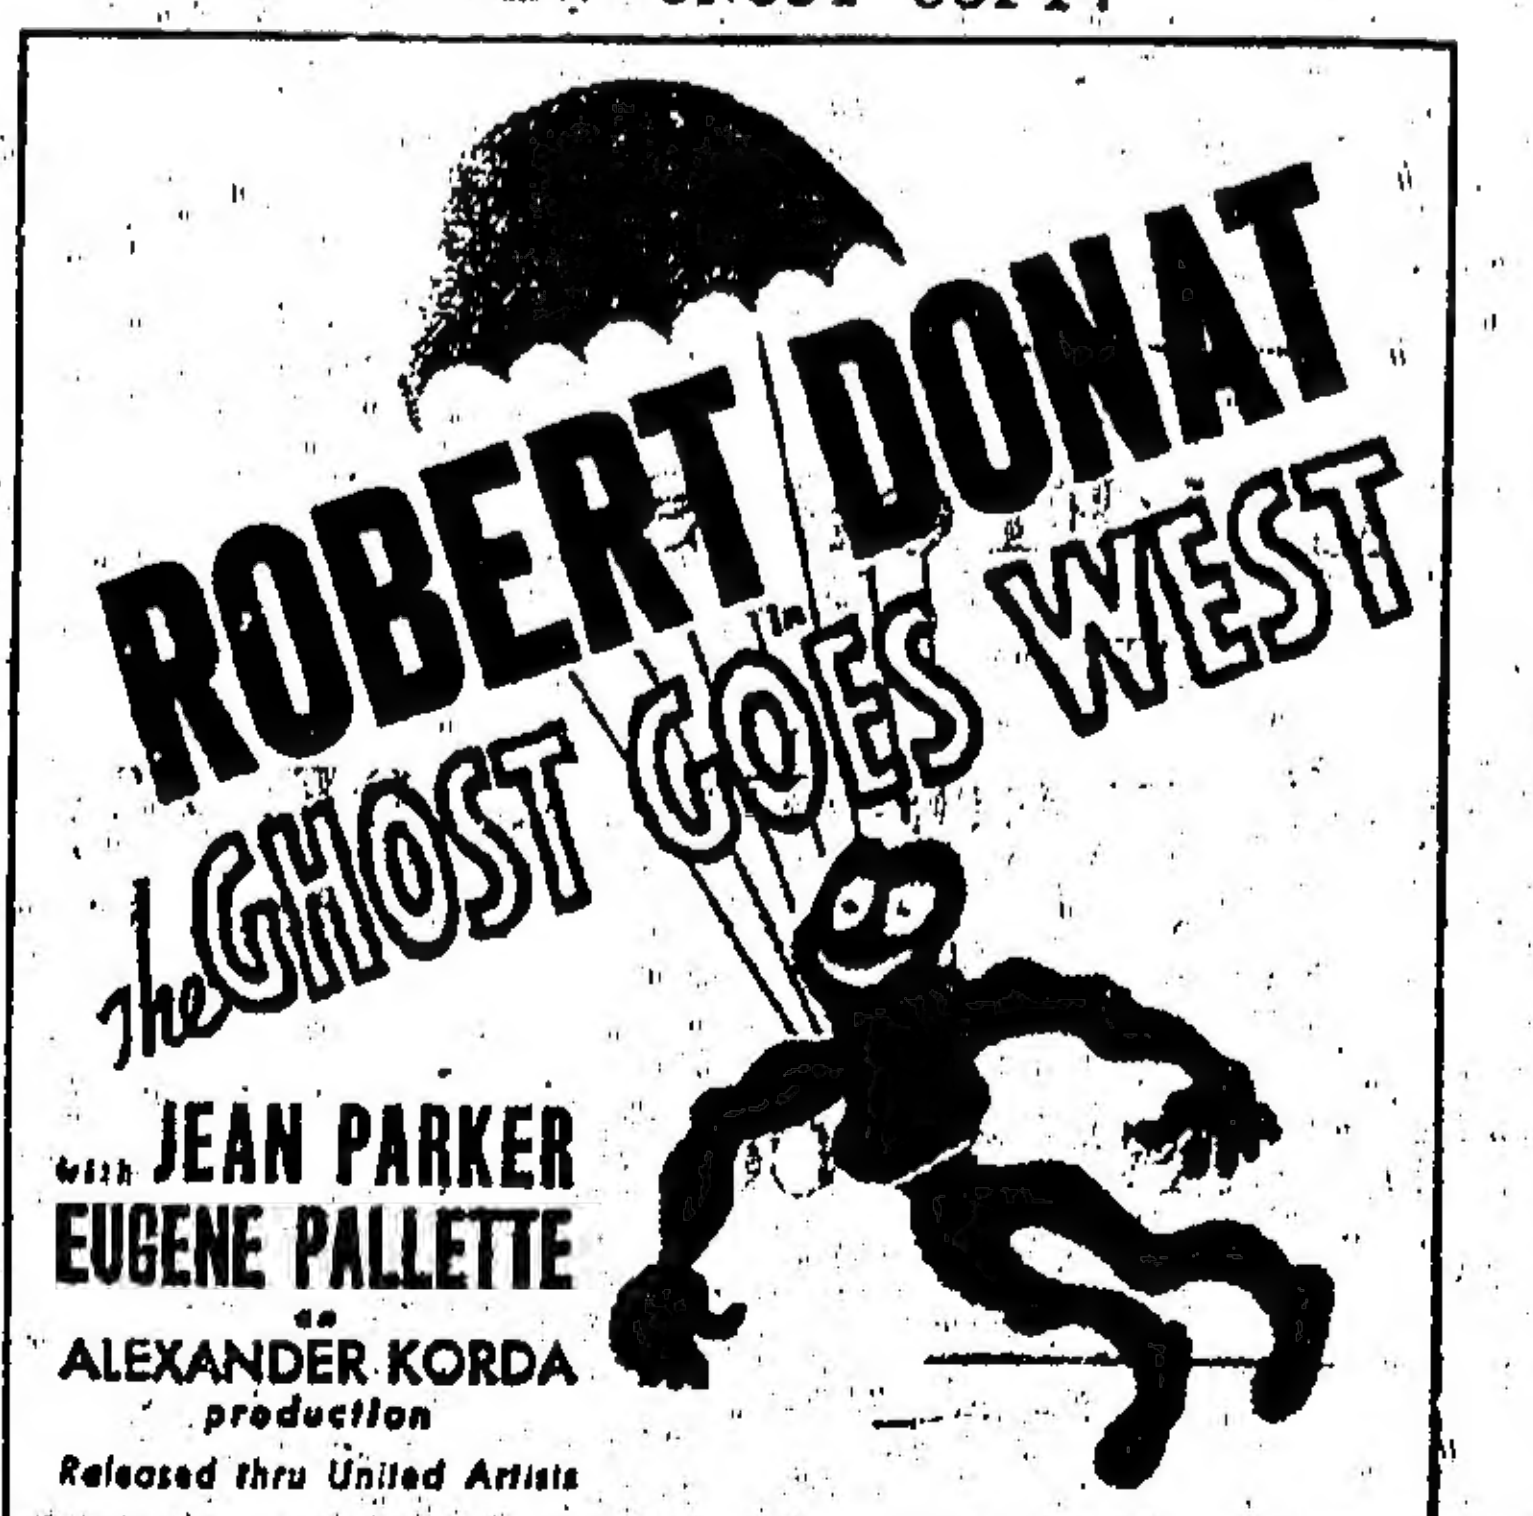

John Arledge and Louise Latimer make a brilliant romantic team, and both give splendid portrayals. Arledge as a young horse trainer and Miss Latimer as Moroni Olsen, her father who objects to the match because of Arledge's lower social station. Arledge defers to Olsen's veto, but Warrior and Lightning, by their respective fight and kidnapping from the ranch unwittingly reconcile the pair on the open moor where there are no parents to mar their romance.

"MORE OF A FOOL THAN KNAVE" Indian Constable Guilty Of Bribery

CRIMINAL SESSIONS TRIAL

The third day of the Criminal Sessions began with the trial of Harehand Singh, Indian constable attached to the Guards Office at No. 2 Police Station, on the charge of offering a bribe to Sgt. C. H. Gough on September 15, before Sir Atholl MacGregor, the Chief Justice.

Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney General, prosecuted for the Crown. Mr. K. W. Bidmead, A.S.P., attended the hearing. The jury was composed of Messrs. W. H. Alexander, (foreman), G. A. Burn, E. A. Noronha, G. S. Ladd, G. Schmidt, A. M. Remedios and Pang Yuck Wing.

CASE OUTLINED

In outlining the case Mr. Williams said that defendant had served for eight years in the police force, and was accused of offering a bribe to Sgt. Gough who was attached to the Guards Office.

It was among Sgt. Gough's duties to place Indian guards on ships and shore duty and to assist sub-Inspector H. G. Baker in filling the vacancies. Sgt. Gough could make recommendations to his superior in the various posts.

On August 25, Sgt. Gough was called on by the defendant, whom he never recollected having seen before. After a few perfunctory remarks about sports, defendant pulled out a bottle of Johnny Walker "Red Label" whiskey and offered it to the Sergeant. The latter replied that he did not like it, and defendant suggested some beer. When he was informed that Sgt. Gough did not drink liquor, he replied that he would bring another kind of present later.

ULTERIOR MOTIVE

By this time, Sgt. Gough knew that there was some ulterior motive behind the presents, and asked defendant, "What do you want?"

The answer was that defendant wished a relative and another guard to be transferred on board a ship. They were understood to be Sgt. 261 and G. 500.

To this request Sgt. Gough said that Insp. Baker was responsible for the transfers to ships, and he had enough money of his own. He then told defendant that some time would be required to think the matter over, as it was very serious.

The next day Insp. Baker was apprised of the affair, and from then on Sgt. Gough was acting under instructions.

On September 10, defendant again called and asked Sgt. Gough, "Have you arranged for the transfer?" The reply was in the negative, and they went into a conversation of the identities of the two guards. It appeared that 261 was not the one that defendant meant, but that it was 201.

Defendant's proposition was that the two guards should be transferred, with two others, to the S. S. Haitan a consideration of $500, or, as an alternative, for the transfer of only the former guards to the S. S. On Lee.

It was mentioned that the Haitan was the better ship as she usually carried a large amount of opium.

A sum of $200 was mentioned in the latter alternative, but Sgt. Gough raised it to $250, and informed defendant that it was a dangerous undertaking to which the other replied, "I will promise that there will be no trouble with the men."

On Sgt. Gough's insistence that the agreement be made in writing, defendant agreed.

TRANSACTION WATCHED

Insp. Baker, and Sgts. Gough and Farquhar were at the room of Sgt. Gough when defendant returned on September 15. Before Sgt. Gough went to the door to meet defendant the other two men secreted themselves on the verandah but in such a position that they would be able to watch what was going on in the room.

As defendant had not brought the written agreement, Sgt. Gough wrote one and it was translated into Indian and signed by defendant, after which the sum of $220 was handed over for the ostensible transfer of the two guards to the On Lee.

Insp. Baker and Sgt. Farquhar walked in at this juncture while the defendant, in startled wonder, pleaded on his knees saying, "Give me a chance. I have been eight years in the service and I am a poor man!"

He was taken to the police station and charged to which he replied, "I did not give any bribe to Sgt. Gough, but he asked me for a loan, and I lent it to him!"

DEFENDANT'S VERSION

Following evidence by the prosecution, defendant said that he had known Sgt. Gough for a year, and that they met in front of the Star Ferry on August 24 about 7 p.m.

After a short conversation, defendant was invited to visit Sgt. Gough, and he did so the following day.

While there, he was told that two Indian guards, 201 and 500 had made a promise to Sgt. Gough, and that the defendant's aid was enlisted to consummate that promise.

Accordingly on September 13, he procured that which was promised to Sgt. Gough, and brought it to the Guards Office.

He was asked to write a translation of the English document as the other two guards could not understand English, and he did so and signed his name.

He concluded that he would not have asked the Sergeant for the transfers as he knew very well that they could not have been granted him.

ACCUSED CROSS-EXAMINED

Mr. Williams: Did you tell anyone else the story that you have just told in the witness box?—No, I reserved my statement.

You had a solicitor at the Magistracy?—Yes.

And yet no questions were asked by your solicitor about the meeting on August 24?—No, I didn't instruct him.

Why did you keep your defence till now, and not mention it to Insp. Baker then?—Because, he told me to keep quiet.

At the Magistracy, the Sergeant stated that you offered whiskey, beer and then money?—Yes.

There was no cross-examination then?—No.

Was the agreement written before you arrived or in your presence?—In my presence.

You signed it?—Yes, just because it is my custom to sign all interpretations.

But the agreement began with "I promise"—That has a different meaning. It meant that Sgt. Gough promised as it was in English.

I put it to you, that your story in the box is all lies—It's all true. Why should I offer $220 to Sgt. Gough when I didn't even know the guards?

SUMMING UP
The Chief Justice admonished the jury that if they believed the defendant's story then the officers of the police had banded themselves together to commit perjury.

The jury returned a verdict of "Guilty" without retiring, and his Lordship deferred sentence until the records of defendant could be perused.

At the resumption of the afternoon's hearing, Mr. Williams informed his Lordship that the defendant's record in the Force was good. He had joined in June, 1929, and was promoted to interpreter in 1931.

GOOD POLICE RECORD

The Chief Justice: You should be reasonably proud of your record in the Force, and although this is a charge of misdemeanour I shall give you a chance to say anything you can to justify your behaviour.

Defendant: I did not do it for my own benefit, but at Sgt. Gough's request.

His Lordship: Then you were more of a fool than a knave—Of course. I didn't expect this charge to be brought against me.

His Lordship: I am going to take your very good record into full account, and will equally, of course, take the fact that your defence, which was a tissue of lies involved the jury's thinking that the police officers in honour and standing had only been false and that they had deliberately committed perjury.

PREPOSTEROUS STORY

HEROIN PILLS CASE

Man Discharged
At Sessions

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

At yesterday afternoon's hearing at the Criminal Sessions, Lau Chun appeared before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, for the possession of 15,000 heroin pills. He was found not guilty by the jury which was composed of Messrs. I. S. Hardoon (foreman) Wong Yui Sung, Lam Woo K. C. M. de Souza, Ah Mann, F. M. Xavier and Chan Yut U., and discharged.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appearing for the prosecution, said that on October 6 at 8.30 a.m. R. O. A. W. Grimmer and Mr. H. A. Taylor raided 40, Queens Road, West and the door was immediately opened by defendant at the first knock. The door could be opened and shut on the outside by a very simple device.

The house was divided into two cubicles and one passage way. Defendant replied to Mr. Grimmer that he was the principal tenant of the premises, but he had no receipt for the rent, which he said was $28.

In the cubicle were found the pills wrapped up ready for transportation.

Charged at the police station, defendant replied, "My master went to Canton, and he told me to take charge of the place for which he gave me $5."

R. O. Grimmer said that, when he examined defendant's hands they were not stained the colour of the pink pills. It meant that he had not touched any of the pink mass for at least twenty-four hours.

Mr. H. A. Taylor, Government Analyst, deposed that he examined the boxes and found heroin. There were 18 packages of 850 pills, and 11 packages of 640 pills in one box, and the other contained 580, which totalled 15,000 pills of heroin.

Without any deliberation, the jury returned a verdict of "Not guilty."

His Lordship gave a word of advice to defendant before he was discharged. He was told to be more careful in the choice of his friends in future.

POTATOES TAKE A WALK!

Tsang Yau, 34, a stall foki of No. 169 Reclamation Street, was brought before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, for larceny on November 24, of a quantity of potatoes.

It was alleged that a constable saw the defendant carrying a sack in Shik-long Street, and when questioned accused admitted theft. Sentence of three weeks' imprisonment was imposed.

officers while they were only doing their duty.

Because you did that I am going to punish you.

Defendant was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment with hard labour, and a fine of $500 was imposed with the option of three months in gaol with hard labour.

INTERPRETER VINDICATED

No Penalty Imposed

Before the Sessions began yesterday morning, the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, called Wai Wai In, an interpreter attached to the Central Police station, before him.

Wai had been over ten minutes late on the first day of the Criminal Sessions, and he gave as his explanation that he had been instructed to remain at the police station until his relief arrived.

His Lordship said:—Two days ago you gave me your explanation for your late attendance in Court here and I told you then that I would seek an opportunity to verify the facts you had given me as far as I can.

The Inspector-General of the Force to which you belong has taken steps to check your statement, and I am glad to say, for yourself and the Force, that I am satisfied you gave me a perfectly honest explanation for your late attendance, and no fault is attached to any member of the Force.

I hope you now appreciate that your undertaking to attend this Court is not a matter of unimportance. I am sure that in future when you sign a recognisance, which is of course a promise to attend and a promise to make substantial payment in the event of non-attendance, you will appreciate that it is a grave matter, and your first duty is to attend a sitting of this Court when you are required to do so.

You have given me an honest and frank statement and though I think I am justified in saying that your conduct in sticking to your post was perhaps a little foolish on your part, it is an attitude for which I can find a little sympathy, and for which I am not going to impose any penalty. You may go.

COLONY'S HEALTH

One case of typhoid from Victoria was notified by the Health authorities for the 24 hours ended November 24.

PROFESSOR EVANS' TALK

"Bernard Shaw's Black Shirt And Red Tie"

ENGLAND'S LITERARIES

Professor R. Ifor Evans' talk on "English Life revealed by English Literature" which was delivered in the Great Hall of the Hong Kong University yesterday, proved to be one of those rare treats which the Hong Kong public was privileged to hear. The speaker's masterful choice of words and cleverly injected humour recomposed the audience for his inadvertent tendency to drift away from the main theme of his talk.

The lecture was very well supported by the public which filled the Great Hall of the University and gave a warm welcome to the speaker who was introduced by Professor R. K. M. Simpson.

ENGLAND'S CHANGE

Professor Evans stated that many agreed that it was some 130 or 140 years ago when England became an industrial country of the world, since when she has passed through several periods of transition. This change has also come upon her literary mind.

After briefly describing the attitude towards things in general which the people of the nineteenth century adopted, the speaker pointed out that Samuel Butler was the first to come to distrust machine. It was he who suggested that Man would one day become its slave. The machine was likened to a baby, because it had to be kept at a certain temperature, fed with the right food and had to be kept clean. The machine made a demand on the world to market its products. It was during this nineteenth century period that there was a sense that the world would develop in the right way for the benefit of the people.

ANALYSING THEMSELVES

At the end of the century Great Britain became involved in the South African war and entered it because she thought, like all nations do when they go to war she was in the right. When the fight ended she wondered whether it was worth it. After a period of ten or fifteen years the English got down to a more intellectual analysis of themselves to a reconsideration of their national and international policies.

The speaker then referred to the criticisms expressed by various writers of the world and mentioned Galsworthy, Wells and Shaw.

SHAW THE ABUSIVE

"Bernard Shaw came from Dublin a poor man and became rich by abusing it," Professor Evans said, "and the more abusive he got, the richer he became."

Bernard Shaw, the speaker continued, was imbued with an image of himself as a sort of Voltaire and possessed a certain sense of mysticism. He was troubled by two conceptions of Communism and solved the problem by wearing a black shirt and a red tie. However, his beard often obscured his red tie.

END OF CIVILIZATION

After referring to other literary minds in the course of his lecture, such as D. H. Lawrence, T. S. Eliott, James Joyce and others, the speaker pointed out that not a few modern writers believed that war would not mean the destruction of the individual but rather that of civilization.

A passing remark was made by Professor Evans in regard to Fleet Street in which he said, "There is no reason why a street of newspapers should be beautiful."

In conclusion, the speaker said, he would gladly answer questions of the past and the present.

ASK WELLS

"If you want to know about the future, ask Wells," he ended.

The speaker was thanked by Professor Simpson who also called for a vote of appreciation which was seconded by Sir William Hornell.

GUIDING IN HONG KONG

Hospital Work Appreciated

ANNUAL MEETING

A highly satisfactory report of the Social Service side of Guiding in the Colony and other activities were presented before its members at the Annual Meeting of the Girl Guides Association of Hong Kong, which was held in the Sandilands Hut yesterday morning.

PRESIDENT WELCOMED

The meeting was well attended and was presided by Lady Macgregor, President, who, in opening the meeting, welcomed Lady Caldecott, the Girl Guides' new Patroness. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and were signed by the President.

Before asking the members to adopt the Report and Annual Accounts, Mrs. T. H. King, Colony Commissioner, expressed appreciation to Lady Macgregor for becoming President of the Association. Thanks were also expressed to those guides and other members who gave their very valuable help to the movement.

LOSS SUSTAINED

Mrs. King stated that the Girl Guides sustained an overwhelming loss in the departures from the Colony of Lady Southern and Mrs. Grist, both of whom did valuable work for the Girl Guide movement in Hong Kong.

After Mrs. King spoke briefly on the report Mrs. J. D. Danby, Colony Treasurer, dealt with various items in the annual accounts. The latter pointed out that the accounts were in a satisfactory state and expenditure was only marginally carried out in redecorating Sandilands Hut.

On the proposal of Mrs. R. M. Henderson, Mrs. C. G. Alabaster seconded the adoption of the report and the annual accounts.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

A short talk on the Social activities of the Girl Guides at the Tung Wah Hospital was given by Dr. Nash who stated that the weekly visits of the Guides had made a lot of difference to the children in the hospital. She appealed to members of the Association to continue this good work carried out by the Girl Guides.

Particular reference was made by the speaker to the guides of the 5th Hong Kong Company, captained by Mrs. G. A. C. Herklotz, who have been paying regular visits to the hospital, especially throughout the summer.

PATIENTS' INTEREST

Dr. Nash pointed out that the children in hospitals used to have nothing to do but since the visits of the Girl Guides the patients are taking very keen interest in doing various kinds of work, such as knitting, quilt-making, and other handicrafts.

In conclusion, Dr. Nash stated that she hoped the Girl Guides will extend their visits to the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital where there are also several children.

"For what you have done we are very grateful," Dr. Nash said.

Among those present were:—Lady Caldecott (Patroness) Lady Macgregor (President); Mrs. T. H. King (Colony Commissioner); Mrs. G. A. C. Herklotz (District Commissioner); Mrs. A. R. H. HELENA MAY

Healthy State Of Finances

At the annual general meeting of the Helena May Institute held yesterday morning, the President, Mrs. A. Murdoch, told the members that they had a profit of $1,430.50 in the year's work.

Taking account of the more pleasing because they had suffered a loss of $2,753.93 last year, and the President thought that their various economies, and the increased number of visitors probably caused this gain for the year.

However, she added, they had in no way reduced their comfort nor their efficiency.

In giving the Hon. Treasurer's Report, Mrs. R. K. M. Simpson, said: "A copy of the balance sheet having been sent to each member of the Institute I will take this as read. Working for the year shows a profit of $1,430.50 against a loss last year of $2,753.93. This is chiefly accounted for by the rise in receipts for travel and the decrease in repairs charged to working account. Subscriptions have again fallen slightly."

"The Profit and Loss Account shows a net profit of $1,903.18 against a loss last year of $2,753.37. Our income from investments amounted to $3,724.68. This once more shows a decrease."

The adoption of the annual report and the balance sheet was proposed by Mrs. M. H. Roffey, seconded by Mrs. J. Durran, and carried.

Mrs. E. Cock, on behalf of members, tendered a vote of thanks to the Officers of the Council, especially the President and Vice-President who have done great work for the Helena May.

Following the meeting, an auction of magazines was conducted by Mrs. J. W. Anderson.

Murdoch, and Miss Jennell, Secretary of the Helena May Institute.

MOTOR AIR TRANSPORT

Aerial Transport Blessings

BY HAROLD GUARD

(United Press Staff Correspondent in the "Manila Bulletin.")

Hong Kong, (Air Mail).—THIS British Colony will be better able to appreciate the many blessings which aerial transport has brought in its wake if an experiment when it is being carried out, quietly and unknown to the general public, by the local Botanical and Forestry Department, proves a success.

Two parasites from Hawaii, which it is hoped will eventually wipe out a rapidly spreading local weed, have recently been introduced here, and important results making botanical and entomological history are expected.

There is a plant literally running wild here, called by scientists Lantana Camara, which has been long viewed with intense dislike. It is a shrub with a somewhat thorny stem, coarse serrated leaves, and composite flowers measuring nearly an inch across, which range through various colors from orange to a pretty yellow.

NATIVE OF S. AMERICA

Lantana was originally a native of South America and it was apparently introduced to Hong Kong as an ornamental plant. Now, in parts of Hong Kong and the New Territories it has spread so rapidly that it has become a menace to local vegetation and naturalists have drawn attention to the need for remedial measures.

For some years efforts have been made to eradicate this insidious invader by employing armies of coolies to uproot the weed, but the effort proved unavailing and in recent months the measure has become a dead letter.

The Botanical and Forestry Department, however, has not been idle and following intensive research work and extensive enquiries in various parts of the globe, new hope has sprung afresh in the hearts of nature lovers.

With the aid of the Clipper mails it has been possible for the Entomology Department at Hawaii to send to Hong Kong two species of insects which are a pest of the Lantana plant.

One insect, a small plume moth operates as a check on the plant by laying its eggs on the bud, covering the entire bud with film of web which prevents development. The other, a fly, selects the fully formed berries of the plant and in each of these lays an egg, the lar-

"SAFETY FIRST" CAMPAIGN

Instructive Talk By Mr. Hodgson

CAUTIOUS DRIVING NECESSARY

Another instructive talk in connection with the "Safety First" campaign, was given by Mr. F. M. Hodgson from the ZBW studio last night. This talk follows that given by the Hon. Mr. T. H. King, Inspector General of Police and the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall.

The speaker reminded listeners that more cautious driving was necessary.

He said in part: "What is this campaign of safety first all about? Well, it is a campaign launched in this Colony by the Police in co-operation with the Hong Kong Automobile Association in an endeavour to lessen the accidents and damage by motor traffic."

VITAL CAMPAIGN

The campaign is vital to you, to me and to everyone, and no driver of a motor car ought to slip in the clutch and drive away without first having indelibly imprinted on his mind these words "Safety First" and put accordingly. One cannot dismiss the terrible toll of human lives lost yearly through the careless and sometimes reckless action of unthinking drivers as a mere incident in modern traffic and that which cannot be avoided. It can be avoided and must be.

You may have witnessed a bad accident—the single horrible accident is not isolated horror, it happens daily. One really needs to see a bad accident or a motion picture of one accompanied by sound, the hopeless effort of the injured to get up, the grunting unpleasant noises and the panting groaning of a human being dragged with shock, if he is not already dead, the insane cramped effect of a child's body crushed out of human shape—these are standard everyday sequels to modern passion of going places in a hurry. Speed and more speed and what for? Just thoughtlessness, but with terrible results!

THE PEDESTRIAN

Now, I can imagine you may say what about the pedestrian who is often the cause of an accident. True he is. The pedestrian may be careless, absent-minded, often stupid, but for this very reason anyone in possession of a potential dangerous weapon is called upon to be on his guard against these frailties of human nature. This particularly applies to this Colony where the roads and streets are often crowded with slow thinking country folk who are not used to motor traffic—who are in the habit of walking anywhere in the middle of the road, oblivious of any on-coming, fast moving and heavy vehicles. Are we justified in assuming the right to ignore these pedestrians and by loud tooting of the horn expect them to clear the way for a triumphant dash through a crowded street or be knocked over? I think not, and yet the manner in which many cars and taxis speed through our city streets is amazing and calls for drastic speed regulations and heavy punishment for breaches thereof. No doubt the pedestrian is at times largely to blame, but if a driver maintains the principle of safety first, he will seldom be caught napping.

CAUTIOUS DRIVING

I have not in this little talk to-night touched upon such a matter of how to properly drive a car, or even what to do when an accident seems inevitable. I am not teaching anyone; nor do I consider I am at all qualified to do so. It is not necessary to assume that the standard of driving in this Colony is low—far from it—the standard compares favourably with any place, and having regard to the congested area of the city and the rather peculiar circumstances prevalent of a non-trained minded people, it might be claimed that the standard of driving is high. Nevertheless, more cautious driving is necessary. To take chances is risky here and to be alert to danger at the most unexpected moment is essential. If drivers will only keep their minds on the job, I am certain there will be less damage done both to your car, to you and to others. By others, I mean those who are entitled to expect care on your part: you expect it from others yourself.

I read a little paragraph the other day which I think is applicable. A magistrate trying a case said to the accused: "You are dangerous to pedestrians. You will not be allowed to drive for two years."

The accused: "But Sir, my living depends on it." The Magistrate: "So does theirs."

was eating the unripe seed as soon as they hatch out.

CHECK ON DEVELOPMENT

If these insects can be established here, they will spread to all Lantana plants in the Colony, and form a definite check on development.

A previous experiment, of a similar nature was carried out, some three years ago, but there was no evidence as to whether any of the imported insects survived. They had to be shipped to Hong Kong in the cold storage of a steamer, most of the larvae perishing on the voyage.

Now, however, the "defending forces" are being imported by Pan-American Clipper, and there are hopes for the eventual entire elimination of the Lantana.

ROUTINE MOVEMENTS AT MALTA

Sensational Interpretations In Messages

RELIEF PROGRAMME FIXED SOME WEEKS AGO

London, November 25. Sensational interpretations were last night placed in press messages upon certain routine ship movements at Malta. The facts of the case are that H.M.S. Cyclops, depot ship of the first submarine flotilla left Malta for Alicante to relieve H.M.S. Woolwich, destroyer depot ship. This type of vessel owing to accommodation available has proved of particular use for evacuation of refugees. Within the next two days H.M.S. Galatea, flag ship of Rear-Admiral Somerville, commanding the destroyer flotilla leaves Malta at the conclusion of the Turkish fleet's visit with three destroyer flotilla to relieve Arethusa, and first destroyer flotilla, now off the coast of Spain.

No official confirmation was available at the Admiralty regarding cancellation of naval leave in Malta but such cancellation is not regarded as unlikely as a local measure frequently necessary at this time of the year owing to heavy northeasterly gales which sometimes make boat communication with shore extremely difficult. There was bad weather in the Mediterranean yesterday so that recall to ships or men ashore may have been necessary for meteorological and not political reasons.

In view of persistent rumours, newspapers here recall that the Italian Government has repeatedly repudiated any intention or desire to obtain footing in Spanish territory. In addition to the terms of the Italo-German joint communiqué issued after Count Ciano's recent visit to Berlin in which reference was made to the integrity of Spanish territory, Signor Grandi in London and Count Ciano in Rome have volunteered the most binding assurances that the Italian Government have neither the desire nor the intention to interfere in any way with the status quo of Balearic Islands.

It is now confirmed that naval ratings were recalled to their ships from shore owing to approach of gale which would have made boat communication excessively difficult. Naval movements are merely in accordance with routine relief programme fixed some weeks ago.

Their Majesties, the King and Queen, Mussolini, the entire Cabinet, high military and party officials were assembled at the railway station, which was decorated with the Hungarian and Italian flags, in honour of the official guest. Following the greetings, the Hungarian Regent and the King of Italy inspected the Guard of Honour, while a military band played the Hungarian National Anthem. They then entered the royal carriage, which was drawn by a black horse, and proceeded through the gaily decorated streets between solid walls of cheering spectators to the Royal Palace. The Hungarian Premier Daranyi and Foreign Minister von Kanya were also accorded a cordial welcome.

LEAGUE MANDATES IN AFRICA

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

London, Nov. 25. The memorandum drawn up by the British East African Administrative Authorities, setting forth the alleged dangers incurred, were the former African Colonies returned to Germany, will be distributed to all members of both Houses of Parliament on Wednesday. It is learned from a reliable source.

The document sets forth that the abandonment of the League Mandates in Africa, instead of easing the situation, would but incur greater armaments and increase the tension in Europe. The erection of German Airports and naval bases in the former German East Africa would threaten the connection with South Africa and the other parts of the British Empire, and must inevitably necessitate strengthening of the defences in the other British possessions. A stronger fleet in the Indian Ocean would be the further consequence. Moreover it is to be feared that a return of the former African Colonies to Germany—so the documents purport—would restrict the freedom of trade of other nations, so that these states would feel themselves affected.

SENTENCE ON GERMAN ENGINEER

Remained In Russia Under Compulsion

Berlin, Nov. 25.

The whole German press on Wednesday published in great prominence the German attitude taken up towards the sentence passed in Novosibirsk against the German mining engineer Sticking. The semi-official German News Agency points out that Sticking only remained in Soviet Russia under compulsion because his wife as a Soviet Russian citizen is not allowed to leave the country. Notwithstanding Sticking's former political sympathies—he was a Marxist—the Reich government used all its influence and power at its command to avert the fate threatening him, since every member of the German Reich, even while in foreign countries, is under protection of the German Commonwealth. It is a matter of honour for Germany that no one belonging to the Reich should be left to his fate. It is so the German News Agency closes its statement—for that reason that the Reich opposes with all its might the hollow sham staged at Novosibirsk, aimed not at the engineer Sticking, but at the German people.

CATEGORICAL DENIAL

London, Nov. 25.

A categorical denial is given in British official quarters to a published statement that the German Ambassador Herr Ribbentrop informed the Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin that Germany intended to break off diplomatic relations with Russia if the German engineer Sticking sentenced to death by the Soviet Supreme Court was executed. It is also denied that the British Government's views on the matter have been conveyed to the British Ambassador Viscount Chilton and that the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden yesterday discussed the matter with the Soviet Ambassador, Malsky.

MERCHANT SHIPS GUARDED

France Follows Britain

Paris, Nov. 24.

The Government has instructed the Ministry of Marine to take all precautions necessary to protect the French flag in Spanish waters. The French authorities take the view that they cannot admit the right of the insurgents to blockade Barcelona, as General Francisco Franco's government has not been accorded belligerent rights.

Marine Ministry circles point out that according to maritime law neutrals are not obliged to observe a blockade unless it is effective and warships in the possession of the Burgos junta are too few to accomplish this.

Instructions to protect the French flag apply to waters off the coast of Spain, in other words, outside the Spanish territorial limits.

It is stated that the French Government does not intend to take steps different from those adopted by Great Britain.

JAPAN-GERMAN AGREEMENT

Berlin, Nov. 25.

Political circles here are guessing the object of an "important announcement" which foreign Ambassadors, except the Soviet, have been summoned to hear this afternoon. It is surmised that it is either a rupture in the German-Soviet relations or a disclosure of the Japan-German agreement.

Reuter.

AGREEMENT CONCLUDED

Berlin, Nov. 25.

It is officially announced that Japan and Germany concluded their Agreement which is directed against the Communist International.

Reuter.

DRIVE AGAINST COMMUNISM

Berlin, Nov. 25.

The Agreement was signed today by Herr Von Ribbentrop and Viscount Matsuoka. The Japanese and German Governments recognise that the aim of Communism is to deteriorate and violate existing states with all means at their disposal. They are convinced that the toleration or interference by Communists in internal relations between nations not only endangers internal peace and the social welfare thereof but threatens world peace.

The Government agreed to inform each other about the activity of the Communist and to discuss and carry out measures of defence in close co-operation. They will invite other powers, whose internal peace is threatened by the work of Communism, to participate in this Agreement.

The Agreement is to be enforced immediately and will last for five years.

The Protocol lays down the authorities of both States to take severe measures against those at home and abroad who are working directly or indirectly in the service of Communist International and forebushes the appointment of a Standing Commission to facilitate the co-operation between both States.

CHURCH DAMAGED

Madrid, Nov. 25.

A number of shells fell in the centre of the city on Monday evening, causing three casualties. The French Church of St. Louis was among the buildings damaged in last evening's bombardment, which was particularly terrifying for the inhabitants, as the lighting in the city is now reduced to a minimum. Dogged fighting occurred in the University City, the French Bridge sector and the Casa del Campo. It is claimed that the fighting went in favour of the Government forces.

REQUEST UNANSWERED

London, Nov. 25.

The British Government's request for information regarding a safe anchorage at Barcelona, which was addressed to the Burgos authorities after the receipt of their recent warning of the intention to bombard that port, has not yet been answered.

General Franco's reply repeats what had already been stated with regard to safety zones at Tarragona, Valencia, Alicante and Cartagena. The British Ambassador at Hendaye, Sir Henry Chilton, has now asked for precise information on the position at Barcelona as early as possible.

The Foreign Secretary's statement in the Commons on Monday forebushes legislation to make it illegal for British merchant ships to carry arms to Spanish ports has been communicated to the Spanish Government and General Franco.

BRITISH AIRCRAFT INDUSTRY

London, Nov. 25.

The Under-Secretary for Air, Sir Philip Gammon, in a speech in London yesterday, said that the development of the Air Force expansion scheme coincided with a period of unusual progress in the performance and design of aeroplanes and engines. How good these aircraft were was demonstrated by the fact that so many foreign nations were anxious to secure examples of them, though they knew they would have to wait a very long time for them.

WAR CHECKED BY SNOW AND RAIN

Madrid, Nov. 24.

Snow and rain are preventing military operations on any considerable scale to-day.

The Government claims the insurgents have not advanced beyond the University City.

The militia men are now resting from their counter-attacks, and are helping in the evacuation of Madrid's civilian population. They have arranged for the safe storage of artistic and scientific treasures.

FOOD TRAIN BOMBED

Seville, Nov. 24.

The insurgents claim to have repulsed several attacks by Government troops yesterday and also to have destroyed by air attack a food train on the way to Madrid from Valencia.

ASKED TO LEAVE

Valencia, Nov. 24.

The Spanish Foreign Minister Senor Delvayo, has requested the Chilean Ambassador, as doyen of the Diplomatic Corps in Madrid, to inform the members and personnel of the German and Italian Embassies, who are still in Madrid, to move out within 24 hours.

TRANSPORTATION DIFFICULTY

Washington, Nov. 24.

Mr. Eric Wendell, the United States Charge d'Affaires in Madrid, reports to the State Department that he is experiencing difficulty in procuring transport for the evacuation of the Embassy staff and American nationals still in Madrid, who number approximately 200.

However, it is his opinion that few of the Americans left in Madrid would wish to leave.

Reuter.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Malta, Nov. 24.

The submarine flotilla of the Mediterranean Fleet, consisting of nine submarines and the depot ship Cyclops, has left Malta. Though there is no official information as to their destination, it is understood they are bound for Spanish waters.

Reuter.

NOT BOUND FOR SPAIN

London, Nov. 24.

The Admiralty announced to-day that there was no question of any British submarine having gone to Spanish water, but the report that they had done so might have arisen from the fact the some submarines accompanied the depot ship Cyclops from port with the object of conducting exercises. Thereafter the vessels returned to Malta, the Admiralty asserts.

It is admitted, however, that all naval leave has been stopped in Malta and the boxing tournament, which was to have been held this evening for the entertainment of the Turkish fleet, has been cancelled at the eleventh hour.

Reuter.

A MYSTERY

London, Nov. 24.

Is the submarine which is alleged to have attacked the Spanish Government cruiser Cervantes a deserter from the loyalist navy?

This surmise is advanced in London diplomatic circles on the strength of the report that the Madrid Government sent out a submarine about a month ago to patrol the Straits of Gibraltar which has not since returned to its base. It is thought it may have joined the insurgents, but it may have been destroyed by rebel ships.

HERR HITLER ON "THE COMING STRUGGLE"

"Red Drums Are Beating"

SPEECH TO HIS OLD COMRADES

Munich, Nov. 9.

Herr Hitler, in a speech here to-night, warned his hearers to "prepare for the coming struggle against Bolshevism." It would perhaps come sooner than was expected, he declared.

"The red drums are beating in Europe," he continued, "and the time may soon come when Germany will be compelled to defend a threatened European civilisation."

Herr Hitler was addressing 2,000 old party comrades who took part with him in the abortive rising in Munich in 1923.

To-day was the thirteenth anniversary of the revolt.

He held a reception for these veteran rebels at Burgerbrau beer-hall, where the original coup was planned. His speech there to-night was broadcast over all the German stations.

WALL OF ARMOUR

Herr Hitler said that when the Nazi movement was founded, he and his followers were branded as fanatical lunatics. Now the whole German people had been won to the Nazi cause. "Let no one be so foolish as to think," he shouted, "that we will not hold this power for ever."

The German armament factories, he continued, had been working day and night for 3½ years and had forged an impregnable wall of armour around Germany, a wall within which stood the German people prepared now for sacrifice as in the past.

The world now knew that they had another Germany to deal with, Herr Hitler continued, a Germany prepared to defend her rights and honour to the last ditch. If some people thought that Germany was loved less now than eight years ago, he was inclined to agree. He preferred the respect of foreign countries to their love.

The anniversary of the Munich rising was observed to-day throughout Germany as a national day of mourning. A special memorial service was held this evening at the Feldherrenhalle, where 16 "Nazi heroes" were shot by the Reichswehr in 1923.

Forty thousand Storm Troopers, members of the Hitler Youth, Nazi Protective Guards, and Reichswehr soldiers, who had arrived by special train from all over Germany, took part in to-night's ceremony. It began with a Nazi procession shortly before midnight, the route followed being that taken 13 years ago.

Street lights were extinguished. Red-draped pylons, bearing the names of the dead Nazi heroes, supported flaming bowls of remembrance fires, and these were the sole illumination.

QUIETEST DAY FOR MANY WEEKS

Insurgents Preparing Big Offensive

PRISONERS EVACUATE FROM MADRID

London, Nov. 25.

Madrid experienced the quietest day for many weeks only minor attacks by Government troops being reported. It is stated the insurgents are preparing a big offensive very shortly. More than a thousand prisoners in the model prison have been evacuated towards Valencia. Most of them who are ex-officers and insurgent sympathisers who intended to form a column inside Madrid are taking arms to join the insurgents.

QUESTIONS IN COMMONS

London, Nov. 25.

In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. A. E. L. Chorlton, M.P. (U) asked how the Japanese Government could reconcile the military occupation of Charhar and part of Suiyuan with obligations under the Nine-Power Treaty.

Replying, Mr. Eden, Foreign Secretary, said that according to information available the Japanese troops apparently have not occupied Charhar and part of Suiyuan.

Mr. Chorlton requested information on particular effects on textile imports to those countries.

"That's another matter," replied Mr. Eden.

Reuter.

ASSURANCE BY ITALY

London, Nov. 25.

It is understood that the Italian Government has again assured the British Government that Italy has no intention of establishing a permanent naval base on the Balearic Islands. The diplomatic correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" states that the Italian Ambassador Signor Grandi, who has just returned from Rome, has been charged to convey these assurances to the Foreign Office. It is added that Grandi will inform Mr. Eden that, as long as the possibility exists that a Soviet Republic will be erected on the Mediterranean, Italy will continue to keep watch from a point of observation from the Balearic Isles, but that as soon as General Francisco Franco's forces have established effective control over the region, Italy will withdraw.

JOHN HENRY LEWIS KEEPS HIS TITLE

World Champion Beats Harvey On Points

BRITISH CHALLENGER'S GREAT BATTLE AGAINST NEGRO

Len Harvey failed in his attempt at Wembley on November 10 to win the light-weight championship of the world. He was beaten on points over 15 rounds by John Henry Lewis, the young American negro holder of the title, states Harold Lewis in the "Daily Telegraph."

Although the decision was hoed, there could be no doubt whatever in the mind of the referee, that wise veteran, Mr. Jack Smith, of Manchester. He did not even study his card.

In my view, decision would have been the same had the fight ended in any round after the first. Lewis won every other round except the last.

There were no knockdowns, no injuries beyond a swelling around Harvey's left eye, and at no time was either man in any serious trouble.

The last round was almost as fast as the first. Yet it was always a hard fight, always interesting despite the steadily lengthening lead of the negro.

From the British point of view, the one comforting feature was the grand fight put up by Harvey. For a man close on 30, a veteran of veterans counting age by contests, his feat in standing up to this powerful young negro of 22 for 15 rounds was little short of marvellous.

He had enough stamina left in the 15th round for one last desperate effort to win the fight by a knockout, and this round was actually his best. He had increased his pace fought like a tiger, planting a succession of solid resounding blows to the body which for the first time made the negro gasp and pause.

It was useless of course, nothing short of a knockout could have won for Harvey then. But I would like here to quote his first remark to Mr. A. J. Elvin as he left the ring: "Did I do well? I told you I was determined to give the public a show, and to give Lewis a run for his money."

He certainly did. Lewis was better than I had expected; yet disappointing. He was clever in the same way that Harvey is clever—shrewd and knowledgeable at infighting, sensing the rights holdable to hit in the clinch and on the break. He also had a good left hand which he kept thrusting into Harvey's face with some venom. And he met Harvey's attempts to lead at him with good footwork.

LEWIS' CHANCES

He was strong and light on his feet and had splendid fitness and latent power. Yet the fact remains that a real top-of-the-tree champion would have finished this fight far sooner than 15 rounds, despite the resistance of the stout-hearted Harvey—will he forgive me if I call him our champion veteran?

Lewis had his chances. He attacked steadily from the second round onwards, and in the second half of the fight with the desperation and the suspicion of the stranger who fears a points verdict.

His aggression naturally forced Harvey's guard open at times. In the 13th round, for instance, he had Harvey on the ropes, and slammed him with right and left. There should have been a knockout in each punch. The truth is that Lewis on these occasions was seen to be somewhat of a slapper, hitting with the side of the glove.

To the body, or with a straight left, Lewis's punches were solid and clean, but he could not punch truly to a moving jaw. It goes to his credit, however, that he is the first boxer we have seen able to play Harvey at his own game and beat him.

A last criticism: Lewis struck me as a fine boxing machine. His attack, like his defence, like his tip-toe balance, was rhythmical, orthodox, but uninspired.

The referee cautioned both boxers at times. He cautioned Harvey most, and there I think he was wrong. For once Harvey was faced with a man who knew all he knew and a bit more about that phase of the game. Lewis, in my view, was the worst offender. But the holding, thanks to Mr. Smith, never spoilt the fight.

The crowd will be wondering whether the story of Lewis's damaged eye was a clever piece of strategy or not. Harvey was probably the first man in that hall to notice that when Lewis entered the ring he wore a strip of white plaster over that old cut near the right eye.

DAMAGED EYE—STRATEGY?

Harvey fought for that eye with all the skill and cunning he possessed, and half-way through the fight succeeded in knocking it off. Afterwards he banged several good left hooks on the scar. But they had no effect whatever.

In that respect I admired immensely the ease with which Lewis picked off some of those punches in mid-air. Some of Harvey's left hooks were fast and unexpected. Yet they were caught on the glove half-way to the target.

That was the work of a master of self-defence, and illustrates the type of boxer Harvey, as the Wembley matchmaker, had asked himself to beat.

The crowd numbered 11,800 and the receipts were about £15,200.

After the fight Lewis was driven to hospital. The old injury to his right eyelid was opened again by Harvey and the probability is that although Lewis is due to go to Paris to-day, arrangements will be made for some minor operation to be made.

THEY'RE FINED IF THEY MARRY

But Bachelors' Club Gets Bigger

A bachelor in Belfast is liable to a fine of £10 if he marries during his membership of Belfast's Bachelors' Club, founded five years ago, states the "Bulletin." The fine must be paid at a bachelor party on his wedding eve, and the money given to charity.

Despite this undertaking and the "hazards of Leap Year," the club, which has just issued its annual report, shows a considerable increase in membership. On the credit side of the balance sheet is given the number of bachelors who have been initiated during the current year, and on the debit side the number of members who have been written off on contracting matrimony.

When the club was founded it had a membership of only 14. Of the foundation members only two remain, the rest having been disqualified automatically by marriage. Everyone who has yet held office for a year as president has been married within 12 months.

Mr. S. Pickersgill, honorary of the club, told the "Bulletin" recently that during the winter season the club held an annual dinner confined to members, and a dance, not of course, so confined. More than half the members were professional men, and the present president is a city councillor.

"We are not misogynists," he added, "nor do we oppose the holy state of matrimony. We feel that bachelorhood, temporary though it may be, possesses its definite pattern in the fabric of society, and should have as honoured and dignified a status as the married state."

The Proven STOMACH REMEDY for Bad Cases

Amazing evidence of the remarkable speed with which indigestion and stomach pains can be stopped has been revealed by medical experiments and X-ray photographs of actual cases. These prove the ingredients of 'Bisurated' Magnesia to be the quickest-acting and most effective known to medical science. Within 5 minutes a teaspoonful of 'Bisurated' Magnesia in a little water produced complete relief in cases where numerous other remedies had failed entirely.

Its Action Explained—
Simply take a teaspoonful of the powder in a little water. The moment this soothing draught reaches the tortured stomach it begins to soothe the coat, loosening and dissolving the food. The contents of the stomach become as bland and soothing as milk. The sensitive stomach lining. The pain quickly lessens and presently disappears. By following up the treatment after each meal, your harassed stomach will soon meet its tenderer and grow strong, until you can eat whatever you like and enjoy every meal, without fear of wind and pain.

RELEGATION ACTION

Against Tottenham Hotspur

A dispute arising out of the relegation of Tottenham Hotspur Football Club to the Second Division of the Football League came before the Chancery Division recently, states the "Evening Standard." Mr. Justice Clauson dismissed with costs an action brought against the Tottenham Hotspur Football and Athletic Co., Ltd., High-road, Tottenham, by Mr. Hubert Berry, of Powys-lane, Palmer's Green, and Mr. James A. Stewart, of West Green-road, Tottenham, in which they claimed a declaration that the company were not entitled to refuse to register transfer of six Ordinary £1 shares from Mr. Berry to Mr. Stewart.

It was alleged that the directors of the company were refusing transfers of shares which would have the effect of increasing the voting power of shareholders.

The directors on the other hand, contended that they had only acted under a power given to them by the Articles of Association of the company.

THE ARTICLE READ

The defence maintained that under Article 18 the directors had power to refuse registration of a transfer to a person of whom they did not approve, or whom they considered "objectionable," or when the transfer was considered to be proposed for "purposes not conducive to the interests of the company," and that the directors were not bound to specify the grounds of their refusal.

Mr. Manningham Butler, who appeared for Messrs. Berry and Stewart, said that the company was formed in 1898 with a capital of £8000 in £1 shares.

There were two Articles to which he would call the attention of the court.

Article 18 provided as follows.

The directors may decline to register any transfer of shares made by a member who is indebted to the company, or in case the transferee shall be a person of whom the directors do not approve or shall be considered by them objectionable, or the transfer shall be considered as having been made for purposes not conducive to the interests of the company.

The directors shall not be bound to specify the grounds upon which the registration of any transfer is declined under this Article.

Previous to the disposal or transfer of any shares the proposed transferee shall submit to the directors' notice in writing of the full name, address and description of the proposed transferee for the approval of the directors.

The other article ran: "Each member who is a holder of one share shall have one vote, or if he is the holder of at least five shares he shall have two votes, and shall also be entitled to have an additional vote for every ten shares held by him beyond the first five shares. No member shall be entitled to any vote in respect of any shares unless he is a registered holder for at least one calendar month."

After evidence had been given, Mr. Fergus Morton, K.C., for the company, submitted that the plaintiffs had entirely failed to prove their case.

The Articles of Association of the company gave wide discretionary powers to the Board. Mr. Justice Clauson, giving judgment, said he was bound to hold that the directors of the company had acted "bona fide" and that there was no ground for interfering with the decisions they came to.

The action would be dismissed with costs.

FINANCE

JAPAN AND CHINESE
COTTON MILLS

Japanese cotton interests whose export policy, according to Sir George Sansom's recent report, states a Home paper, has received a check by the imposition of tariffs, exchange regulations, and quotas by importing countries are none the less planning an additional and even cheaper flood of cotton goods by their exploitation of Chinese production.

The cotton industry of North China, it is claimed, is highly promising, provided of course, there is a maintenance of peace and order—presumably Japanese. China's advantages over Japan are recent great improvement in Chinese cotton, of which grades equivalent to American cotton are obtainable at prices 7 to 8 yen lower; that taxation is lower in China than in Japan; that labour hours are longer, a double-shift system of twelve hours each being possible, while wages are one-third of Japan's standard; and that electric power is 30 per cent cheaper than in Japan.

According to the "Japan Chronicle," the Japanese are making amazing headway in Tientsin and elsewhere. Of six Chinese mills in Tientsin four have passed into Japanese ownership, while the others are under joint management. New mills are under construction, and at the beginning of October there were 240,000 spindles in operation 180,000 under installation, and 110,000 to be ordered.

Expansion of the Japanese mills in Tsingtao will bring the present total of 620,000 spindles to 880,000 spindles by the spring. Negotiations for a mill at Tsinan are being hampered by the local authorities, but if their objections are met it is calculated that Japan will own or control 1,200,000 spindles in North China. Looms, too, are being increased commensurately, and soon Chinese piece goods may be placed on the world's markets.

BRITISH TRADE
IN CHINA

London, Nov. 24.
The question of credit facilities for British trade in China was discussed by Mr. William Kirkpatrick and other members of the Export Credits Guarantee Department today at a meeting with representatives of the engineers' section of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, who has already been selected to represent British Export Credit in China, expressed the opinion after the meeting that there were distinct signs of valuable opportunities for an enlarged share of China's import trade in capital goods of British manufacture.

CARS OF TO-DAY

14/56 H.P. Wolseley.

The 14/56 Wolseley saloon is a car which gives enjoyment to both driver and passenger.

The four-door six side window body has the attraction of being wide in the beam in front, so that there is ample shoulder and elbow room. The adjustable seats are big. The back door is level, except for the propeller shaft tunnel. The saloon is nice, looking with its partial streamline, and the front is well balanced with its lamps and horns.

The engine is neatly designed with the pushrods for the overhead valves and the sparking plugs in the detachable head on the nearside. Here also and accessible are the large ventilated dynamo.

the oil-filler in the valve cover, the diprod, the coil, the make-and-break and distributor, which have a micrometer adjustment and automatic advance and retard, the oil pump on the side of the base with the drain plug below, the pressure oil filter, the radiator tap, and, on the dash, the electric petrol pump with its flexible lead and the tank for the hydraulic jacks. The water filler is outside the bonnet; the circulation is controlled thermostatically. On the outside are two down-draught carburetors with a large air cleaner and silencer. They are synchronized and have a balancing pipe. A tap allows the jacket to be drained. There is no difficulty in getting at these parts, nor is there in reaching the filter plug on the cam steering box, or the fluid tank for the hydraulic brakes; and the spare oil tin on the dash.

KING'S FIRST SPEECH

Like his father, the King in his first Speech from the Throne proved himself complete master of the difficult acoustics of the House of Lords, states the "Daily Telegraph."

There could be no greater contrast than King George's deep, resonant voice and the light, level tones of his son.
